RESOLUTION.

MUNICIPAL DEPARTMENT.

Dated Allahabad; the 4th February 1915.

READ—

The divisional reviews submitted by Commissioners upon the administration and finances of municipalities during the year 1913-14.

This Government's (Municipal department) resolution no. 935, dated the 11th March 1914, on municipal administration in the year 1912-13.

OBSERVATIONS.—In most of the municipalities of the province the process of transformation alluded to in the resolution of last year continued steadily during the year under review. The exhaustive enquiry into the extension of primary education and the holding of the All India Sanitary Conference at Lucknow afforded further valuable lessons to workers in local self-government, while in eighteen more of the smaller municipalities non-official gentlemen have taken up the arduous and important duties of chairman. The further extension of this system of municipal administration to the larger cities awaits the revision of the Municipalities Act, proposals for which are expected to be introduced into the Provincial Legislative Council at no distant date.

Considerable activity was again displayed in framing schemes of taxation for the replacement of octroi, and in all but three of the selected towns the change was completed. In the larger cities the abolition of octroi is dependent on the extension of the system of terminal taxation, proposals for which have been worked out in a number of the cities in which the evils of octroi are more especially felt. The co-operation of the railway administrations is however essential to the proper working of any system of terminal taxes, and further progress has been delayed by the objections put forward by them to undertaking the duties of collection which forms an integral part of the scheme. The substantial grants made by the Government of India, and the interest evoked by the presence of a large body of experts, directed much attention to the possibilities of sanitary improvement. This has been much hindered in the past by the absence of a trained staff but the inauguration of the Provincial service of health officers with effect from the 1st March 1914 and the increase in the number of trained sanitary inspectors will gradually provide municipal boards with a reliable agency for securing steady progress in sanitary practice. The system of education in municipal areas still leaves much to be desired but the assistance given by means of the recurring and non-recurring grants detailed in a subsequent paragraph should materially assist boards in remedying the backward state of urban education in the province and in securing a harmony in the development of the educational work of municipalities and district boards which has hitherto in many cases been lacking.

Administration and elections.

2. As regards administration there is again little calling for notice except the substitution of non-official for official chairmen, and the working of the election system. In general the divisional reviews indicate that the work of administration has been well carried out, the majority of the boards displaying interest in their work, and isolated instances of indifference or apathy having been adequately dealt with by the Commissioners. There was no falling off in the interest taken in elections or in the importance attaching to membership, for not only were some 7,000 fresh voters registered, bringing the total electorate to over 106,000, but contested elections were held in sixty towns with 56 per cent. of the eligible voters going to the poll. The rules have been altered so as to minimize the danger of prolonged electioneering litigation, but in the preparation and revision of electoral rolls there is still much room for improvement, and Commissioners have commented on this point in respect of more than one important town. The purposes of the new and elaborate rules of procedure are largely stultified by indifferent or obsolete electoral rolls, and some boards do not appear to have yet realised the responsibilities which rest on them as regards securing their careful and systematic revision. The chairman of the Cawnpore board again reports the practice of unduly crowding the polling booths with agents of nominal candidates, the result being that in one contest the time for recording votes proved insufficient and the polling closed with the votes of over 100 voters still unrecorded. In one case it has even been reported that the various candidates preferred to substitute for open election the more simple procedure of casting lots in a temple. The Lieutenant-Governor is again gratified to notice that the work of the several non-official chairmen is commended by the Commissioners, and His Honour desires to convey his thanks to them for their work, which so often involves the wholesale sacrifice of private interests.

Revision of octroi and new taxes.

3. Last year's review foreshadowed a detailed statement of the proceedings taken for the abolition of octroi in 38 municipalities. In 22 of these the change to direct taxation had been effected either in 1912-13 or from the financial year 1913-14, leaving 16 undetermined. During the year new forms of taxation were introduced in Sikandrabad (from 1st May 1913) and Sultanpur (from 1st January 1914), while proposals were completed for 11 other towns in which the reform takes effect from the current financial year. Since the year closed both Soron and Bara Banki have followed suit, and Ghazipur alone remains.

In the majority of the towns the requisite income was secured by a tax on circumstances and property, 23 of the municipalities having accepted this impost. Seven others have resorted to a house tax, with either a general or restricted tax on trades and professions. The Mainpuri and Kunch boards have combined the general tax on circumstances and property with a house tax, and Rurki has taken advantage of its special conditions to impose in addition a light tax on specified trades. In Orai, Kalpi and Azamgarh the substitutes consist of a tax on circumstances and property and a tax on specified trades, but in Azamgarh the classes liable to the latter tax are exempt from the former. In the hill settlement of Almora the principal new taxes are a toll and a house tax. In the absence of any well recognized principles governing the imposition of direct taxes under Indian conditions municipal boards have been under serious disadvantages in working out their revised schemes, and it is clear that generally fair results can only be arrived at by comparison and co-ordination on definite principles of the various proposals. The Lieutenant-Governor therefore referred the whole question to a committee of experienced officers, and the proposals of that committee are now under the consideration of the Government. From the few recorded results of 1912-13, it was not safe to draw any general conclusions as to the success or otherwise of the boards in estimating the yield of the new taxes, but experience since gained tends to remove any apprehension that in their anxiety to adopt light rates they would overestimate the income and be driven to an early revision of their new systems. In the year under review Jalesar is the only one of 21 towns to experience a considerable deficit, though in Ghaziabad also an enhancement in the rate of the house tax had recently to be sanctioned. The actual income from new taxation in 11 of the towns approximated very closely to the original estimate of the requirements of the boards; in the towns of Kandhla, Kairana and Najibabad estimates of Rs. 5,550, Rs. 10,300 and Rs. 16,000 were followed by receipts of Rs. 7,348, Rs. 12,825 and Rs. 20,887, while in the following cases the return of the tax was slightly in defect :—

	Estimated yield.	Actual yield.
	Rs.	Rs.
Atrauli	11,355	9,807
Dhampur...	10,000	8,737
Amroha	33,717	29,631
Sambhal	25,494	22,653
Fatehpur...	15,972	11,237

These differences are probably the result of lenient assessments and new machinery not yet in smooth running order, to meet which eventualities the Government gave certain non-recurring grants alluded to in the previous resolution. The Sultanpur board at any rate admits the timely arrival of this help, since owing to the large number of undecided objections, no collections were made for the last three months of the year although octroi was no longer in force.

It is too early to gauge the effect of these changes on local trade, but the Commissioner of the Meerut division remarks that there is some reason to think that retail importation of vegetables and farm produce has already been facilitated. On the other hand His Honour observed during his winter tour that the new direct taxation has led to considerable and not unnatural discontent, as the disadvantages of direct taxation force themselves on the attention of all while the advantageous results of the liberation of trade can only be attained by slow degrees.

The Lieutenant-Governor has no small sympathy with the large classes who were previously unaware that they paid more than very small sums to the municipal exchequer, and now find themselves liable to the payment of considerable amounts in direct taxation. Any objections on grounds of principle as regards the relative advantages of different forms of direct taxation will receive the most careful consideration, but fairness of incidence as between one tax payer and another can only be secured by the scrupulous impartiality in assessment proceedings of the members of the municipal boards. His Honour has regretfully been obliged to conclude that this impartiality has not in all cases been attained.

For the larger cities the only changes made have been in the direction of imposing a house tax. At Agra however, owing to various difficulties and to the numerous objections to assessments, the list was not completed until the year was far advanced, and only Rs. 512 were collected out of an estimated demand of Rs. 25,000. A house tax has been imposed at Moradabad with effect from the 1st April 1915, and the Cawnpore board has as a temporary expedient pending a general revision of their system of taxation met their financial difficulties by a doubling of the previously existing house tax from the 1st October 1914.

Octroi receipts.

4. The results of the year continue to bear witness to the dominating position held by octroi as a source of municipal revenue in this province, for to the annual income of 78·96 lakhs exclusive of grants it contributed no less than 35·91 lakhs. Eliminating the figures for towns in which octroi was not in force for the whole year the totals are as follows :—

	Gross.	Net.
	Rs.	Rs.
1912-13	47,95,322	35,52,612
1913-14	45,53,890	35,83,336
Difference ...	—2,41,432	+30,724

The maintenance of the net yield at the high level of the year 1912-13 supports the view that octroi receipts are not seriously affected during actual periods of scarcity, decreased refunds being then the chief characteristic, but rather in the period succeeding a famine, when a contraction of imports is followed by an increase in refunds. Receipts were adversely affected by the prevalence of plague in some towns, and by the reported manipulation of trade transactions in the Meerut and Rohilkhand divisions in anticipation of the removal of octroi. Compared by classes the net receipts of the year rose in the case of class I (food stuffs) by Rs. 69,500, of class II (animals for slaughter) by Rs. 18,500, and of class VI (tobacco) by Rs. 7,500, while they fell in class III (oil) by Rs. 10,000, in class V (drugs) by Rs. 7,000, and in class VII (cloth) by Rs. 52,500. A higher income in the case of class II is a not unusual phenomenon in periods of scarcity, more especially since the extension of the Burma meat trade to these provinces. The larger receipts from tobacco are mainly due to the towns of Benares and Lucknow.

A comparison by divisions shows a decline in all cases except Benares (+ Rs. 30,000), Rohilkhand (+ Rs. 26,000), and Allahabad (+ Rs. 23,000). The large town of Benares is itself responsible for a rise in the divisional figures, the increase here amounting to Rs. 35,291, while in the Allahabad division Etawah and Allahabad both enjoyed higher incomes. In the former town it is explained that there was a heavy importation of food grains to replenish granaries emptied by an abnormal export of grain to Gujerat, and the chairman of the Allahabad board reports that their experience in famine years is that the brisk imports of Burma rice more than compensate for the shortage of the local kharif. In Agra it was not anticipated that the abnormal figures of the previous year could be maintained, and the net income fell off by Rs. 25,251, but excluding the year 1912-13 the figure is still the highest on record. The town is a large distributing centre, and the large increase in transit facilities in recent years cannot but have exercised a marked effect upon its trade.

In the matter of through trade there is not much of interest to record. The percentage of refunds fell to the old figure of 20, but this does not represent the entire through trade, as numerous exports in small quantities on which no refunds are claimed are made to surrounding villages. The gross imports of grain fell by eighty lakhs of maunds, but the net imports remained stationary, indicating the great contraction in the export trade. Agra may again be quoted as furnishing a striking example of the hampering effects of octroi on through trade, for of the gross octroi income not less than 49 per cent. was paid back in refunds, the total of the latter aggregating Rs. 2,96,569 ; the refunds on saccharine substances were as much as Rs. 1,09,447 against gross receipts of Rs. 1,57,885.

Municipal income.

5. The total municipal income aggregated 99·98 lakhs, and included 35·91 lakhs from octroi, 19·63 lakhs from other taxes, and 44·44 lakhs from non-taxation sources. The increase of 11·13 lakhs on the figures of the previous year is almost entirely under the head of grants and contributions. It is unnecessary to repeat the detailed analysis of the sources of income given in the resolution of last year but its general conclusion that apart from grants and contributions more than two-thirds of the income of municipalities is derived from indirect sources is one of great practical importance. Even with the partial or total replacement of octroi by terminal taxes this will continue to hold good, but such delusively easy methods of raising money cannot be indefinitely extended. They have in fact practically reached their limits already, while the demands on municipal finances from the growing appreciation of amenities of all kinds are still at a very early stage of development. Such improvements cannot indefinitely be postponed in the hope of receiving doles from Government, and all boards must before long take into most serious consideration the possibilities of supplementing the possible increases in direct taxation not by changes in octroi rates or terminal taxes, but by the development of municipal property and by keeping steadily to the principle that special services such as the supply of water or possibly an improved system of lighting must as far as possible pay for themselves.

Out of a provincial incidence of Re. 1-13-0 not less than Re. 1-6-0 is derived from octroi, and in only 11 towns is the total incidence over Rs. 2 while in 32 it is less than Re. 1. Such figures can hardly be taken to support any complaints of the burden of municipal taxation on the residents of towns; but they also clearly indicate that many possible sources of municipal income still await their due development.

6. The income from taxation other than octroi rose by 2·42 lakhs to 19·63 lakhs, but the larger returns from the tax on circumstances (1·65 lakhs), from the house tax ($\frac{1}{4}$ lakh), and from the trade tax (·16 of a lakh) are really due to the substitution of these taxes for octroi in several towns. Tolls, which have replaced octroi in Almora, show a rise in the same way. There is a satisfactory improvement in the yield from taxes on vehicles and animals. Agra is notably enjoying the result of vigorous supervision, while the greater part of the increase comes from Cawnpore, where the licence fee has been amalgamated with the tax.

The income from terminal taxes at Cawnpore, a very fluctuating item, shows a not unexpected decline, and the variable character of the receipts from these taxes according to the prosperity or decline of trade will be one of the main difficulties to be guarded against in the revised schemes of taxation for the larger cities. Water rate on the other hand gave a better return, coupled with a large rise in the receipts from the sale of water. The continued development of water works income demands the most vigilant attention, the installations at present constituing in all cases a heavy burden on the general municipal fund.

7. If however taxes show no real increase, there is ground for satisfaction in the income of 22·54 lakhs from non-taxation heads, an increase of 1·56 lakhs on the figures of the preceding twelve months. Pounds and registration fees show in combination a rise of ·27 of a lakh. In the scarcity area of the Jhansi division fees for the registration of cattle sales are a fruitful source of revenue in times of drought, and usual concomitants are the increased use of pounds and numerous sales of animals impounded and unclaimed. The rise of Rs. 15,000 in the receipts from fines represents, it is to be hoped, a more stringent application of municipal byelaws.

It is satisfactory to note that more attention has been devoted to the exploitation of revenue from municipal property, the chief sub-heads showing increases, while from markets and rents an income of no less than 8·12 lakhs was obtained. The introduction of municipal markets tends to the establishment of a monopoly and occasionally to the infringement of private rights, but while the latter must be protected there is every justification for allowing boards to require private markets to be conducted on sound sanitary lines, and the adjustment of this question will receive attention in framing the new municipal legislation. The development of income under these heads is noticeable in the figures of more than one town, and the case of Shahjahanpur may be instanced as illustrating what can be done in this direction. This board contracted a loan of Rs. 20,000 to improve the market accommodation, and of the ordinary income of 1·53 lakhs only ·87 of a lakh were obtained from taxation, the rest coming from other sources, the chief of which were rents (Rs. 39,000), sale of land (Rs. 8,000), conservancy receipts (Rs. 6,300) and markets (Rs. 5,200).

8. Proposals for loans to construct large public works diminished in view of the considerable assistance rendered by the Government, and to some extent financial stringency also curtailed the borrowing powers of municipal boards. The ordinary loans fell to 7·81 lakhs, of which 3·71 lakhs were on account of instalments of advances previously granted to Mirzapur, Allahabad and Cawnpore, so that the actual additional liability was only a little over 4 lakhs. Advances for remunerative undertakings alone amounted to 2·44 lakhs. The enterprising board of Ujhani took Rs. 27,000 for the improvement of its property, while the Shahjahanpur loan for markets has already been mentioned, and has since been paid back in full from the available balance. The other sums were paid out in connection with an electric project for Dehra, a municipal undertaking which promises a good return, in which the municipal board of Mussooree will share inasmuch as it provides the necessary energy for the new plant. For the main project a first instalment of Rs. 80,000 was advanced to the Dehra municipality, and a further sum of ·43 of a lakh was taken by the board to encourage connections with the installation. Following the example of Mussooree the Dehra board decided to advance money for connections on the 10 year instalment system ; no interest is charged, but the resulting income from the sale of power is a source of considerable revenue. To meet the cost of additional plant connected with this project a loan of Rs. 74,000 was contracted by the Mussooree board, a satisfactory example of co-operation between two local bodies.

In the matter of new loans for sanitary works the figure for the year is very low, comprising 1 lakh for water works extensions at Lucknow and ·66 of a lakh for drainage operations at Hapur. A loan of 2 lakhs was also made for the work connected with the Improvement Trust at Lucknow, but beyond the formal security of the municipal fund this imposes no direct liability on the municipality.

9. Thanks to the generosity of the Imperial Government grants and contributions show a large increase on the total of the preceding year. Of the non-recurring allotment of 27 lakhs for urban sanitation one-third was available for distribution during the year, which was also the first of a recurring assignment of 6 lakhs for the same purpose. Municipal boards also received 5·80 lakhs of the money provided for education. The task of municipal administration was thus materially lightened, but boards must remember that this generosity makes it the more incumbent on them not to relax their own efforts. With the educational grant the contributions made totalled Rs. 21,02,843, a figure already mentioned as in excess of the income secured from taxation other than octroi, and equal to that from municipal property.

In addition to the grants for education and sanitation Rs. 1,25,400 went to 29 towns to assist them in substituting direct taxation for octroi. Rs. 98,689 was on account of the standing assignments to Allahabad, Cawnpore, Lucknow, Agra and some other towns, and the new grants included water works Rs. 7,01,267, drainage Rs. 4,98,929, and miscellaneous projects Rs. 98,558. Among the latter mention may be made of a sum of Rs. 23,000 to Allahabad for the improvement of a main thoroughfare, and of Rs. 20,000 to Sitapur towards a scheme for improving the approach road to the railway station. Allahabad also received the first instalment (Rs. 6,500) of a grant towards the cost of constructing a much needed municipal office, while a project for experimenting on roads at Cawnpore with granite setts took Rs. 30,000, and Rs. 15,000 went to Lucknow towards an interesting experiment in the shape of a park for pardah-nashin ladies.

10. The accounts of the Improvement Trusts at Allahabad, Cawnpore and Lucknow were briefly as follows :—

	Allahabad.	Cawnpore.	Lucknow.
	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.
Opening balance	12,558	2,501	11,700
Receipts	1,44,627	2,25,746	3,46,998
Charges	8,420	1,14,446	3,53,685
Closing balance	1,48,765	1,13,801	5,013

Work was practically at a standstill in Allahabad pending a final decision as to the next stage of the operations, but this matter has been settled since the year closed, and work has begun on two new roads. There was also delay in realising the proceeds of sales of sites on the Hewett road, as some of the original purchasers repudiated their undertakings, necessitating a second auction, which resulted in a loss of Rs. 33,130 to the trust and a test case against one of the defaulters. Building on the Hewett road sites was also held up, but the difficulties have now been met and considerable progress should be possible in the current year. Sales of sites in the area provided for the dispossessed residents reached the high figure of Rs. 15,945, and in this area model cottages and a private house have been erected, though the want of piped water impeded progress for some time.

In Cawnpore also progress has been retarded, the expenditure of the year being swollen by a sum of Rs. 1,01,474 paid on account of loan charges. The main operations conducted were the selling of further plots as building sites, the preparation of plans and estimates for the road, the construction of sewers, pavements, etc., the extension of the water main, and the framing of proposals for the acquisition of further plots in the immediate neighbourhood, while the Government contributed a grant of Rs. 81,500 towards the cost of the sewers, water mains and roadway.

At Lucknow, progress was again considerable. Building on the already completed first two sections of the new road was brisk, and only a few sites now remain unoccupied. The third section with the lateral connection was opened for traffic, and the public quickly realised the advantage of this short cut between the two portions of the city, the section being reported one of the busiest thoroughfares in the town, though work on drainage and pavements still remains to be done. Acquisition on the fourth section is in hand, and a survey of the fifth has been commenced. Other important projects on which the trust are to be congratulated are the cloth market, the Aminuddaula park and the Chedi Lal Dharamsala. For the latter Lucknow is indebted to the foresight and energy of the late Rai Ganga Prasad Varma Bahadur, whose death has been such a severe loss to the municipal administration of these provinces. The figures of receipts and charges are indicative of the activities of the year, the former including a loan of 2 lakhs which it is proposed to liquidate from the sale proceeds of sites on the fourth section.

These trusts have now been in operation for some years, but a reliable financial forecast is still uncertain, except possibly at Allahabad. Here besides the large cash balance half a lakh is held in securities, and more funds are available when required from further sites on the Hewett road. A statement of profit and loss again accompanies the annual municipal report for Lucknow, showing gross receipts of Rs. 13,79,309, charges totalling Rs. 11,73,544, and a balance of Rs. 2,05,765 which is all required for the discharge of the loan liability. The sale of sites on the fourth section will however recoup the money which has been sunk in compensation charges, and so relieve the financial situation. In Cawnpore the chairman calculates a loss on the whole transaction of 1·21 lakhs—an anticipation which it is hoped will not be fully realised. In any case these works cannot be judged solely by their financial results, as they are primarily undertaken to improve congested localities. In Lucknow particularly the operations have completely transformed the areas traversed by the new road, and produced parks, markets and lines of shops the advantages of which are not to be measured from a purely financial or even utilitarian point of view, but at the same time it must not be forgotten that due provision for the housing of the displaced population should be an essential part of any scheme of town improvement.

Municipal expenditure.

11. The total expenditure of Rs. 90,54,363 on service heads exceeded the record figure of the previous year by Rs. 1,96,179, and eliminating the capital outlay on water and drainage works, the rise is no less than 5·44 lakhs. But nearly 1·51 lakhs is accounted for by Government subsidies to education, while the maintenance of water and drainage works absorbed 1·28 lakhs, and of ordinary public works Rs. 18,000; the increase also of Rs. 23,000 under the provincial share of nazul income is due to the payment of arrears by the municipal boards of Allahabad and Cawnpore. If these items, which aggregate 3·20 lakhs, are excluded, the real advance in expenditure is 2·24 lakhs. Administration is however better gauged by the distribution of the available resources to the various services. During the year the outlay on conservancy was 16·10 lakhs, on lighting 5·07 lakhs, on roads 9·48 lakhs and on markets 2·37 lakhs, while 14·11 lakhs were spent on the establishment for public works and general administration. These items alone amount to 47·13 lakhs, and exceed by 10 lakhs half the ordinary annual income. Ordinary administration cost 10 lakhs, and will continue to be expensive so long as the octroi system remains in operation. But a criticism which appears to emerge from a detailed examination of these statistics is the want of a systematic distribution of expenditure, and boards would be well advised to investigate the real requirements of the main branches of local administration.

That some municipalities are already adopting this course is apparent from the figures now under review. Conservancy, to which extra money was given in the previous year, shows a further rise of Rs. 80,100, chiefly contributed by Lucknow, Moradabad, Benares and Agra. An increase of Rs. 43,235 in the amount spent on roads is enhanced by the fact that last year's figure included an outlay of a lakh on a special project at Benares; the most noticeable instances of increased expenditure occur at Lucknow, Agra, Cawnpore, Saharanpur, Jhansi and Moradabad. Similarly on hospitals more was spent than is indicated by the total increase of Rs. 8,584, the prominent items being reported from Dehra in connection with the Coronation Hospital, from Budaun where the board contributed Rs. 6,000 towards improving the local dispensary, and from Saharanpur where land was acquired for the extension of the Sadr hospital.

After conservancy the highest increase is under markets (+Rs. 72,171). Several boards took minor measures to improve their property, but generally the increase represents the enterprise of a few places which realise more fully the advantage of developing this remunerative form of property. Ujhani and Shahjahanpur both spent much money on repairing and extending the municipal shops, and the Benares and Lucknow boards have also added to their market facilities.

The expenditure on lighting decreased by a little over Rs. 4,000, but actually many minor improvements are reported, the figure of the preceding years having been swollen by abnormal expenditure on the electric works at Mussooree. The important scheme for providing electric power for the three cities of Allahabad, Lucknow and Bareilly had unfortunately not materialised by the close of the year under review.

The more noticeable municipal buildings erected during the year were a clock tower at Meerut, a town hall in Ujhani, a municipal office at Benares, and a residence for the municipal secretary at Lucknow.

Works connected with education, water supply and drainage are dealt with in the following paragraphs.

Education.

12. As already stated there was an excess of 1·51 lakhs in expenditure over the preceding twelve months, the outlay totalling Rs. 5,51,516. Municipal boards received their share of the Imperial allotments to the extent of 5·80 lakhs: 5 lakhs was given in non-recurring grants for the improvement of defective school accommodation, and the remainder is a recurring subsidy for the development of primary education. The recurring grants were made too late for general employment, and many do not appear in the year's figures, inasmuch as some boards had not formulated schemes for their utilisation. Nearly half the additional expenditure is accounted for by the two cities of Bareilly and Lucknow. The latter, with a total expenditure of Rs. 94,330, Rs. 40,895 of which represents the cost of the Aminabad high school partly met from a grant, displaces the former from the head of the list, where it had stood for several years. Nevertheless Bareilly spent Rs. 78,672, or Rs. 23,000 more than in the previous year. As the income from fees was only Rs. 13,739, and a large proportion of the expenditure was devoted to secondary education, the question deserves consideration whether the other important municipal services have received their fair share of the municipal resources. The various systems for the control of primary education in municipalities did not come specially under the review of the Primary Education committee, but the general principles laid down by that committee are in great measure applicable to municipal areas and it should be possible to reach a higher standard in municipal schools than in those for rural areas. It is unfortunately clear that in not a few municipalities the contrary is the case, more especially as regards the proportion of the pupils who reach the upper primary standard. The whole system requires careful examination for the purpose of providing adequate supervision while at the same time allowing full scope for local initiative and resource. The Lieutenant-Governor hopes shortly to address boards on this most important subject, and is confident that by the co-operation of the boards with the educational authorities it will be possible to devise a well-considered scheme which will go far to remove the reproach of inferior educational facilities from the cities of these provinces.

Water and drainage works.

13. Ten towns are responsible for 13·80 lakhs of the total expenditure of 14·35 lakhs on water works. The capital expenditure decreased by over three lakhs owing to last year's abnormal outlay at Mirzapur. Maintenance charges on the other hand rose by 1·15 lakhs to 7·38 lakhs, 1·08 lakhs of this being due to Cawnpore, where considerable difficulties were experienced with the in-take channel. During the year the project at Mirzapur and the improvements at Cawnpore approached completion, while substantial progress in the latter direction was also made at Allahabad. The other works carried out are detailed in the 19th annual report of the Sanitary Engineer. A committee was appointed to consider how the requirements of the city of Agra could be met, and at Meerut also the insufficiency of the present plant is beginning to be felt, while the larger project for Jhansi is still unsettled. The growing appreciation of a water supply is already manifest in the schemes for Muttra, Fyzabad, Hathras, Khurja, Aligarh and other places. The paramount obstacle is the high cost of maintenance, the experience of the larger and wealthier towns in this respect being calculated to discourage the less affluent boards from embarking on extensive projects. It seems possible that tube wells may enable these difficulties to be surmounted in many towns and trial borings were made in four towns by a special cadre of provincial officers; the issue of the experiments is now being anxiously awaited.

The outlay of Rs. 7,95,368 on drainage operations shows a fall of Rs. 31,593. All except 1·17 lakhs was devoted to capital outlay on which the figures necessarily vary from year to year. Considerable progress was made on parts of the main project at Allahabad, for which funds have been provided by the Government, and in Benares good work was done on sewers and in the pakka mahals. The Landour scheme at Mussooree and the drainage operations for Hapur were continued, while of new works the most prominent is that at Bahraich. The Tilhar board improved the sanitary state of the town considerably by generous expenditure on filling up insanitary tanks and digging drainage channels, while the reclaimed lands will, it is hoped, yield a substantial return. The project is one which might with advantage be considered by other towns. Anti-malarial operations of some magnitude were undertaken at Kosi, Nagina, Meerut, Saharanpur and elsewhere, and similar projects are under consideration for several other places. Activity in drainage and sanitation is now a regular feature of municipal administration: not only has the Provincial Government more funds at its disposal but the sanitary staff has been considerably augmented, while sanitary schemes of an aggregate cost of over twelve lakhs were examined during the year by the Sanitary Board, and the Sanitary Engineer's department has 10 projects under construction and about 50 schemes under preparation.

Vital statistics.

14. The satisfactory turn taken by vital statistics in the preceding twelve months was partially maintained during the year under review, births exceeding deaths by 1·92 per mille of population. The respective figures for births and deaths were 41·12 and 39·20, the total number of births registered falling by 3,288 to 123,373, while deaths rose from 101,955 to 117,606. The Azamgarh figure of 64·61 deaths per thousand, which is the highest rate recorded in the year, and with the exception of Chandpur (63·47) the only figure in excess of 60 per mille, must be attributed to plague, which seriously affected the statistics of several municipalities. The more extended entertainment of qualified sanitary officers should by securing more efficient registration largely increase the value of all these vital statistics.

The infant mortality of 1912-13 was the lowest on record for 30 years, but an increase of 30 in the proportion of deaths per 1,000 births in the year under review brings this terrible problem into fresh prominence. Boards are fortunately beginning to realise the importance of giving all dais a proper course of instruction, and it is to be hoped that the lead given by Saharanpur and Benares in such matters will be more generally followed.

Finances of indebted municipalities.

15. The Kosi and Shahjahanpur loans having been repaid there are now 26 indebted municipalities; the financial condition of 17 of these municipalities may generally be regarded as satisfactory, while in no instance is there any real apprehension as to the security of the Government loans. On the other hand the condition of the municipal finances at Ballia, Hathras, Jaunpur and Nagina leaves much to be desired, and requires the most serious consideration by their boards. Agra is still labouring under its old water works loan, and has had to face in addition a large outlay on recasting their scheme of water supply so as to put an end to the constant complaints of the absence of water in the higher lying areas of that city. The Government has undertaken to provide four lakhs for this purpose, but even so strict economy will be necessary if insolvency is to be avoided. Allahabad also finds it no easy task to meet its regular liabilities, and but for the generosity of the Government the drainage scheme could not have been commenced for nearly a decade. Cawnpore is now engaged in a radical revision of its system of taxation, but sources for the inevitable expansion of revenue at Benares are not so obvious. The municipal board of Mussooree, faced with the disappearance of the grant of Rs. 25,000 which they have received for the last six years, entered into an advantageous arrangement for the supply of electric energy to Dehra, but even so the Government has had to provide a reduced grant for a further period of four years. Since then the hill station has begun to feel the effect of the political situation, and faced with every prospect of a most disastrous season has already applied to Government for further assistance.

16. When the present Municipal Act was brought into force it was expected to cover all requirements for many years to come. The rapid growth of municipal life has now completely outrun its provisions and an extensive revision has become essential. One of the main results as the new system develops will be a further increase in the already great responsibilities of municipal boards, more especially in the large cities, and it is incumbent on members of these boards to prepare for their responsibilities by the exercise of zeal in the public interest tempered by a careful consideration of facts and of administrative possibilities and by impartiality in dealing with the many questions which come before them, but more especially those connected with taxation. General.

The Lieutenant-Governor is confident that they will not fail in these respects but will show themselves ready and able to take their full share in the heavy tasks of administration.

ORDER—Ordered that a copy of this resolution be forwarded to all Commissioners of divisions for information and communication to the chairmen of municipal boards.

Ordered also that a copy be published in the United Provinces Government Gazette for general information.

By order of the Hon'ble the Lieutenant-Governor,

A. W. PIM,

Secretary to Government, United Provinces

MUNICIPAL ADMINISTRATION AND FINANCES

IN THE

UNITED PROVINCES OF AGRA AND OUDH

FOR THE YEAR 1915-16.

No. 535.

RESOLUTION.

MUNICIPAL DEPARTMENT.

Dated Allahabad, the 8th February, 1917.

READ—

The divisional reviews submitted by Commissioners upon the administration and finances of municipalities during the year 1915-16.

Read also—

This Government's (Municipal department) resolution no. 2165, dated the 13th November, 1915, on municipal administration in the year 1914-15.

OBSERVATIONS.—At the close of the year under review the Municipal Bill had not yet become law; no comment is therefore necessary on the far-reaching changes effected by it in the powers and the constitution of municipal boards. The year was a period of quiet growth and prudent expenditure, a time of expectation of the notable changes which were shortly to deprive the municipalities of this province of immediate official guidance.

Administration and elections.

2. A continuous increase is noticeable in the interest taken by the electorate in municipal elections. No less than 23,399 out of a possible 27,185 voters went to the polls. A less satisfactory result of this increased interest was seen in connection with election petitions which were in some cases marked by reckless charges of fraud, impersonation, and improper conduct on the part of officials.

The average attendance of members at meetings of the boards was on the whole satisfactory but the number of meetings adjourned for want of a quorum shows a slight increase in the figures for the preceding year. In Jhansi however the average attendance was only 7·83 out of 16 members, and in Banda the figures are even worse than last year, while in Lucknow and Meerut the attendance was hardly up to the standard which should prevail in boards of such importance. The returns of attendance at committees are much less satisfactory though a large proportion of the practical work of boards is carried out by their agency. Cases are not infrequent of municipal commissioners who while often among the most anxious to secure office are inclined to shirk the laborious and sometimes thankless work of committees.

The Lieutenant-Governor trusts that when the impetus which will doubtless be given to attendance by the novelty of independent municipal administration has died down, indifference to the less interesting duties of municipal administration will not reassert itself.

Revision of octroi and new taxes.

3. Final instructions have not yet been received from the Government of India on the principles to be observed in applying terminal taxation, and on the revised schedule of rates drawn up in December, 1914, by an informal committee of representatives of several of the larger boards as a guide to municipalities introducing terminal taxation. Hence the process of converting octroi to the simpler form of terminal tax has been delayed. Agra, Chandausi, and Hathras are still awaiting the orders of Government on their draft schedules. In the meantime Chandausi has imposed a toll tax on such goods as are free from octroi duty. Pending a decision on the general financial question in Moradabad the board has been allowed temporarily to enhance the rates of octroi on certain articles and has again been directed to consider the question of substituting terminal tax and toll in accordance with the principles provisionally accepted by the Government of India.

The discontent consequent on the introduction of direct taxation, alluded to in the resolution of last year, can only be finally allayed by the steady growth of a spirit of responsibility and public duty in the tax-payers and by the gradual appreciation of the benefits derived from the increased freedom of trade and intercourse. In certain localities such as Azamgarh direct benefits are not yet obvious; in others, for example Orai and Mau, a change has already set in, as noticed by the Commissioner, who remarks that on the occasion of visits to these places he was pleased to learn that the abolition of octroi has done much to promote business. The Lieutenant-Governor is confident that by degrees the spirit of opposition will be replaced by one of realization of the advantages already perceptible in certain parts of the province. His Honour does not however desire in any way to minimize the difficulties which are being felt by the boards of many towns where the change from octroi to some form of direct taxation has been carried out at a period of marked financial depression. The abolition of a tax which forms so large a proportion of a board's income must necessarily be attended by much anxiety and financial difficulty. In the Meerut division the Commissioner reports that much remains to be done before arrangements for the collection of the new direct taxes can be considered satisfactory, and that boards will require constant attention for some time to come. In some cases the taxes levied in place of octroi have proved insufficient. Bela-Partabgarh and Nawabganj-Bara Banki are both in a precarious condition and have been called on to prepare proposals for additional taxation. Firozabad has revised the rates of the tax on circumstances and property to meet the defect in its income, while Mainpuri has also found it necessary to enhance its property tax.

Octroi receipts.

4. The net octroi income has recovered somewhat from the depression of last year but is still much below the figures of two years previously :—

	Net octroi income. Rs.
1915-16	31,42,669
1914-15	29,44,916
1913-14	35,91,006

The number of towns where octroi is in force fell from 37 to 35. In view of the general economic dislocation caused by the war the recovery made by trade is remarkable. The return to more normal conditions cannot however be regarded as necessarily permanent and towns deriving the bulk of their income from octroi must realise that no grounds exist for anticipating an enhanced income from octroi in the coming year. All classes of octroi share in the increased income with the exception of class VI, tobacco, where net receipts have dropped from Rs. 77,000 to Rs. 75,000. The main increases have occurred in class I, articles of food and drink, under which the income has risen from Rs. 15,39,000 to Rs. 15,86,000, and in class VII, cloth, which brought in receipts totalling Rs. 5,09,000 as against Rs. 4,41,000 of the previous year. The most serious loss of income has occurred in Fyzabad and Gonda where the net receipts are one-fifth less than in the favourable year 1913-14.

The Lieutenant-Governor is inclined to agree with the Commissioner's observation that war and plague cannot account for the whole decline and that there is need of increased vigilance in the administration of the tax. In Benares also the income has fallen but not seriously, the decline of 3 per cent.—due mainly to a decrease in the imports of articles of food and drink,—being attributed to the effects of the war. A similar decrease occurred in Gorakhpur. In the divisions of Jhansi, Allahabad, Rohilkhand, Agra, and Meerut the income increased by amounts varying from Rs. 13,000 in Jhansi to Rs. 2,35,000 in Allahabad.

The rise from 20·5 to 21·8 in the percentage of refunds to gross receipts is not due to a large increase of refunds in any particular class but to small increases distributed over the schedule. Two examples of towns where a tendency opposed to the general trend is noticeable are Agra and Hathras. In Agra, the classic example of the wastefulness of the octroi system, a surprising decrease of from 51·22 to 43·5 is recorded in the percentage of refunds to gross income. The main general reason assigned is the holding up of stocks of food-grains by merchants in expectation of a removal of the embargo on foreign trade. In Hathras a remarkable increase in the import of grain was accompanied by an equally remarkable decline in the percentage exported, nearly one-half remaining in the town as against one-third in the previous year.

Municipal income.

5. The aggregate municipal income rose from 88·71 lakhs to 94·42 lakhs but is still 5·56 lakhs below that of 1913-14. In that year however an abnormal amount was realised under the head of grants and contributions. The figures of the previous year 1912-13 are more normal and are almost identical with those of the year under consideration.

The total figure of 94·42 lakhs comprises 31·42 lakhs from octroi, 23·5 lakhs from other taxes, and 39·49 lakhs from other sources. Octroi has already been discussed. The income from other taxes has risen from 21·39 lakhs to 23·5, an increase of nearly 10 per cent. While the house tax has remained constant and the tax on professions and trades has yielded less by Rs. 75,000 than last year's receipts, the income from water rate has risen by the large sum of 1·88 lakhs. The tax on circumstances and property gave an enhanced income of Rs. 33,000 and the terminal tax and toll an increase of Rs. 51,000. The income from other sources rose from 37·88 to 39·49 lakhs, the most noticeable increase being ·38 lakhs, in the "sale of water" and ·21 lakhs in "rents." Government contributions form a still larger part of municipal income than last year, the total grants for all purposes being 15·15 lakhs as against 14·92 lakhs in the previous year.

A survey of the financial situation in the various divisions shows, on the whole, a satisfactory year's work in the face of difficulties. In Rohilkhand income has increased by Rs. 66,800 but is still below what may be considered the normal figure. As the Commissioner points out, the recovery from the agricultural and war depression is not yet complete. It is satisfactory to note however that the tax on circumstances and property is showing an improved yield, and that as a result of activity in the Bareilly expansion scheme the income from rents is improving. The Meerut division shows still more improvement and appears to have been affected remarkably little by the war. The income was greater by two lakhs than that of last year and by one lakh than that of the previous year. An appreciable part of this prosperity was however not due to the expansion of ordinary municipal income but to receipts from special sources including an increase of Rs. 22,300 from the pilgrim tax. The introduction of the water rate in Mussooree produced an additional Rs. 21,800. Besides the large increase of receipts from octroi in the Agra division, the income from other taxes rose by more than half a lakh owing mainly to improved collections by Agra of house tax and water rate though the arrears of direct taxation are still heavy.

In the Allahabad division on the other hand, the income is less by Rs. 36,300 than that of last year, Rs. 13,000 being accounted for by a decline in receipts from the sale of water at Cawnpore due to the free allowance given on account of payment of water rate. The slight rise in the income of the Jhansi division is shared among all the main heads. An increase in "rents" has occurred in every municipality in the division. The Benares division on the other hand has not prospered from the statistical point of view, a decline of Rs. 1,14,800 having occurred in the income. The Commissioner, however, remarks that the financial position of all the boards except Ballia is a fairly sound one, though all have more or less suffered from the economic conditions of the year. The revised rates and rules for the assessment and collection of the tax on circumstances and property in Ballia sanctioned with effect from 1st July, 1916, will ameliorate but will not solve the financial difficulties of the municipality which the Lieutenant-Governor trusts will receive the serious attention of the newly constituted board.

Of the three municipalities in the Kumaun division, two, viz. Kashipur and Almora, are in a sound financial condition, while the third, Naini Tal, although sharing in the general increase of income, cannot be regarded as in a satisfactory position. Improved collections under house, conservancy, and water taxes left the board with a closing balance of Rs. 27,000, of which however only Rs. 10,000 can be regarded as available for current expenses.

The two municipalities in the Gorakhpur division enjoy very unequal prosperity. Gorakhpur, after a successful year's finance, in which the main feature is a substantial rise in rents of municipal lands, has a balance to its credit of Rs. 46,000. Azamgarh, on the other hand, records a loss of nearly Rs. 4,000 on the year's working and can show an opening balance of only Rs. 7,000. An equally chequered state of things exists in the Lucknow division, where Rae Bareli is financially unsound, the income of the town having decreased by Rs. 8,000 during the last four years. Owing to the general depression of trade and the damage done by heavy rains the year was a peculiarly unfortunate one, but it is clear that unless the board can realise all its dues, its financial position will be grave even during the most favourable periods owing to a partial diversion of trade which seems likely to be permanent. On the other hand, Sitapur, Khairabad, and Lakhimpur have struggled successfully with adversity. Shahabad has increased its income under almost all the major heads and finished the year with a substantial balance in hand. In Lucknow the income rose by more than 2½ lakhs, due mainly to the generous contributions given by Government for the purpose of repairing the very great damage caused by floods.

Of the Fyzabad division, the Commissioner writes:—"If municipal energies are to be widened in this division it is clear that additional taxation will be necessary everywhere. That however is a matter for the public spirit of the municipalities concerned." These remarks apply specially to Bara Banki, where expenditure is Rs. 2,000 in excess of receipts, roads are starved, and the situation is described as generally impossible. The financial situation is also difficult at Fyzabad, where schemes of drainage and water-supply have to be financed. The Local Government has assisted the board with substantial grants but an indefinite continuance of this assistance cannot be expected. A water-rate which is to be imposed should do something to relieve the pressure. The pilgrim tax realised only Rs. 8,000 instead of the usual Rs. 25,000, owing to the fact that one of the usual fairs did not fall within the financial year and another had to be stopped owing to cholera. A fictitious appearance of prosperity was produced in Bahraich by the simple expedient of neglecting necessary payments on account of sinking fund and interest.

The Lieutenant-Governor observes with regret that the collection of direct taxation is in general unsatisfactory throughout the province.

In the Meerut division, for example, the Commissioner asserts the necessity of prompter assessment and collection of taxes on professions and trades. The accumulation of arrears has led, in the case of one or two municipalities, to considerable remissions. In Benares, collection is still attended with some difficulty, while in Azamgarh the classification of assessees does not appear to have been altogether accurate either at the original assessment or in the process of levelling down on appeal to the board. A proper realization of financial responsibility is one of the most important lessons to be taught by independence and one of the most difficult to learn. As applied to taxation it implies firstly the most scrupulous care in assessment more especially in the higher grades. Secondly a corresponding sense of responsibility in proposing remissions or reductions of taxes ; a wish to oblige or to be liberal and the feeling that small sums do not matter have caused a serious loss of income to not a few boards. Thirdly a readiness to use the resources of the law in the collection of taxes which have not been remitted ; this again has been a wide field for careless administration or misplaced generosity.

6. The accounts of the Improvement Trusts are briefly as follows :—

	Allahabad.	Cawnpore.	Lucknow.
	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.
Opening balance	1,98,653	18,347	21,816
Receipts	57,400	1,21,978	1,85,126
Charges	1,90,218	89,298	1,14,219
Closing balance...	65,835 plus 50,000 in G. P. notes.	51,027	92,723

The Allahabad Trust Committee has spent the large sum of Rs. 1,67,583 in acquiring the land required for the two new Trust roads which are to join Hewett road to Muthiganj and Balwaghat roads. As the first road runs through a low lying area at present used as a sewage farm, a considerable amount of levelling is necessitated. Almost all the unsold sites on Hewett road have now been disposed of, the income being over Rs. 38,000. Building work has been proceeding briskly and the road is now beginning to be an ornament to the city. The smallness of the closing balance is due to the heavy outlay on the two new roads and the absence as yet of any resulting income.

The new A. B. road in Cawnpore was opened to traffic in July, 1915, while considerable progress was made in the construction of buildings in the locality many of which have already been occupied. By the close of the year the report of the committee appointed by Government to consider the question of the expansion of Cawnpore had not been received ; hence no new schemes of an ambitious nature have been embarked upon by the trust during the year under review.

In Lucknow the income shown in the accounts of the trust amounted to Rs. 1,85,126 and was almost entirely made up of a grant by Government of Rs. 38,000 and of a loan of Rs. 1,35,000 taken for the purpose of carrying out the Jutawaligali project. The main item of expenditure was Rs. 69,000 expended on the third and fourth sections of the sanitary board. The ordinary operations of the trust were however on a small scale as compared with the extensive schemes for the purpose of repairing as far as possible the ravages caused by the heavy floods in September, 1915. Those floods caused an exceptional situation which was met with an energy and devotion worthy of the highest praise.

The rescue and temporary housing of the victims was followed by the rapid cleaning away of the débris and the distribution of large grants to assist in the rebuilding of private houses. The necessary means were afforded by grants of Rs. 1,20,000 made by the Government of India and of Rs. 2,82,436 by the Local Government. The Indian Research fund also gave a grant of Rs. 80,000 towards the carrying out of special schemes. The work of reconstruction is being carried out on broad and well conceived lines with the cordial co-operation of the residents of the areas affected, and great as has been suffering caused by the floods permanent improvements will at any rate result from the misfortune and a great step forward will have been taken in relaying the worst parts of the city. The board had the advantage of the assistance and advice of Professor Geddes in the work of replanning, and have put on record their warm appreciation of the help most generously given by him.

Municipal expenditure.

7. Although the expenditure is 3·22 lakhs less than that of last year, it is the second largest on record, amounting to Rs. 92,49,993. If, however, the capital expenditure of 15·9 lakhs on water supply and drainage is deducted, the expenditure drops to 76·55 lakhs as against 81·58 lakhs last year. This economy, which was necessitated by the financial uncertainties of the year under consideration, was achieved partly by a reduction of activities in the various services. The expenditure on lighting decreased by 2·15 lakhs and on conservancy by 2·57 lakhs. The decrease under the head of conservancy is however largely due to the lower rates for fodder, and that under the head of lighting mainly to the fact that no sum was spent during the year under review in Mussooree and Dehra Dun comparable to the large expenditure of the preceding year from special grants and loans on the hydro-electric schemes. The completion of the electric lighting installations in Lucknow and Allahabad was delayed by the difficulties of obtaining plant but these have now been partially overcome and the installations are expected to be in working order before long. The reduction by Rs. 36,000 of expenditure on markets and slaughter houses is regrettable in view of the assistance derived from these forms of municipal enterprise towards the lightening of the burden of taxation. Arboriculture, wells and hospitals and dispensaries all suffered from the necessity of retrenchment. The cost of general administration and collection though very slightly lower than during the last year is still high in comparison with the amount collected. The abolition of octroi, however—and more especially in those towns where the percentage of refunds to gross income is large—will permit of the introduction of systems of taxation under which the collection charges will form a much smaller proportion of the total income derived from them.

Public Works water and drainage.

8. The expenditure on public works totalled 10·27 lakhs as against 12·48 lakhs last year and 13·07 lakhs the previous year. The Lieutenant-Governor regrets to observe that several boards are failing in the elementary duty of maintaining their roads in good condition. In Nawabganj, where only 1/3rd of last year's expenditure was incurred, the roads are reported to be a disgrace. In Khairabad also the metalled roads are being starved. In Jhansi the expenditure on roads has fallen off considerably with the result that many are in a deplorable condition, while according to the Commissioner few towns have worse roads than Banda. In the Allahabad, Meerut and Rohilkhand divisions a noticeable decline of expenditure under this head has taken place. In the towns of Agra and Fyzabad, on the other hand, further attention has been bestowed on roads with good results. Well considered schemes of road repairs to be undertaken annually with careful estimates of the recurring charges involved are still lacking in many municipalities and would be of great assistance towards the maintenance of a reasonable standard of excellence.

The year has not been noteworthy in the department of public buildings, though mention should be made of Pilibhit which has completed a new town hall and municipal office at a further cost of Rs. 13,600 and are now in possession of an excellent building well suited to their purpose. It has however been one of great activity in the prosecution of water supply and drainage schemes. Allahabad, Benares and Bahraich all made further progress with their drainage schemes though the latter is still unable to afford the necessary complement of a flushing scheme. In Lucknow the water supply is deficient on account of the difficulty in obtaining machinery for pumping water from the tube wells. In Unao the tube well has been completed at a considerable cost but no provision has so far been made for distributing the water. In Koil-Aligarh the tube wells and the central pump are nearing completion. Any judgement, therefore, on the success of tube wells in these three places would be premature although the tests applied have yielded good results in all. In Allahabad trouble was experienced owing to a serious breakdown in the new engine at Karela Bagh, necessitating a temporary shortening in the hours of supply. The new engine has since been completely taken down and repaired but other difficulties connected with the water supply are not yet solved and have been seriously increased by the very heavy floods of the last monsoon. Agra spent 2·36 lakhs in water works construction. Progress is being made, though not of a very rapid order, in carrying out the improvement scheme; the work of laying pipes has been completed and the scheme should be in full working order by the end of 1917. Hopes had been entertained of supplementing the supply to the higher zones of the city from tube wells but experiments have proved that no good results could be expected from their construction.

The experience of the year has further emphasized the need of a special agency for the supervision of water supply installations, which require a continuous attention such as it is impossible for the Sanitary Engineer to Government to find time for. Many towns have passable systems of water-supply but in the larger cities the demand is tending to outgrow the supply, the reserve of power is seldom adequate, and the problems of distribution and of avoiding waste are of ever growing difficulty. Drainage systems are still more backward than systems of water supply though municipal boards are becoming more and more alive to the benefits of a general drainage system—a luxury not as yet enjoyed by any city in the provinces. The history of municipalities during the coming years will be intimately concerned with the efforts made to convert the present shallow, badly graded and insufficient surface drains into a scientific sewerage system. The expense will be great but it should be repaid by the improvement in health of the large urban population and by the resulting advance in the general amenities of city life.

Education.

9. In the year 1914-15 the figures under this head were increased by the special non-recurring grant of one lakh made by the Government of India and the expenditure of the year under report has therefore fallen by nearly a lakh to Rs. 6,18,597, but the outlay is still considerably greater than in the two preceding years. The additional recurring grant of Rs. 80,000 in aid of primary education sanctioned in March, 1916, could not be utilised during the year. A part of this grant was expended in paying half the salaries of the new officers known as superintendents of schools, who were appointed in the municipalities of Allahabad, Lucknow and Benares, the boards having delegated, in certain cases with a sparing hand, powers calculated to enable the superintendents adequately to supervise municipal education. One municipality, Cawnpore, declined to receive a grant on the conditions named and it will be diverted to another city.

The variations in the expenditure on education as compared with the figures for the previous year are in general not large, but there are a few cases of substantial changes usually caused by the presence or absence of expenditure from the special grant made by the Government of India. In Bareilly the expenditure on education fell from Rs. 70,200 to Rs. 60,000 owing mainly to the fact that the large sums spent on construction and repair of school buildings in 1914-15 were not repeated in the year under review. In Cawnpore the rise in expenditure of Rs. 16,000 was due mainly to an item of Rs. 10,000 for the construction and repair of schools, the item finding no counter-part in the previous year. In Allahabad the rise in expenditure from Rs. 25,700 to Rs. 32,900 was due to a similar reason.

The new Municipal Act lays down a standard of 5 per cent. on the normal income of a board as the sum which should be spent on the advancement of primary education. An examination of the statements shows that this standard is still far from being attained in many municipalities including some of the most important in the provinces. The first duty of municipal boards with respect to education is to make reasonable provision for primary education and when this has been fulfilled they are entitled to devote such further sums as are available to other educational objects.

The income from fees advanced from Rs. 32,531 to Rs. 37,391 which is equivalent to 6·05 per cent. of the total expenditure on education. The percentage is not high but it represents a by no means negligible contribution for the extension of education to the poorer classes of the community.

Vital statistics.

10. The special appendix dealing with this subject previously prescribed for municipal reports has been discontinued as the forms attached to the annual report of the Sanitary Commissioner give the same information for the calendar year. The birth rate has risen from 42·63, to 44·79 per thousand and is higher than any recorded during the last 35 years except in 1899, Firozabad and Etah heading the list with 68·90 and 63·47 respectively. Mussooree and Lakhimpur on the other hand return the remarkably low figures of 12·85 and 17·32, but defective registration is believed to be partially responsible for the unsatisfactory returns. The death rate has risen in a slightly larger proportion from 39·01 to 41·24 per thousand but no town reaches the figure of 93·45 per mille recorded last year for Chandpur. Chandpur is however second on the list with 65·58, being exceeded only by Khurja where 77·06 deaths per thousand were recorded. In these places as in Nagina the mortality was caused mainly by plague and fever. In Pilibhit and Brindaban, where the figures are over 60 per thousand, cholera and fever were the primary causes of the heavy mortality.

Although the infantile death rate decreased largely from 292·90 to 272·76, the figures still indicate a lamentable ignorance and carelessness on the part of the urban inhabitants of these provinces. In Lucknow, Rae Bareli and Shahabad, out of every three children born one died. Though vaccination undoubtedly did not reach a reasonable standard, this failure is not the only nor perhaps the main cause of the mortality. The indifference of the majority of the people to the importance of engaging trained midwives can be combated only by means of patient work and by the example of the more enlightened classes. It is a regrettable fact that in some places, such as Muttra, the efforts of the board to provide trained midwives have had to be relaxed owing to the failure of the public to avail themselves of such services, though rendered free of charge. In Benares the Commissioner reports that a district nurse is to be appointed, but that until a serious attempt is made to improve the conditions attending child-birth and to provide properly trained midwives, there is little hope of any material reduction in the death rate.

General.

11. The death of Rai Bahadur Nathi Mal was a severe loss to the provinces and more especially to the municipality of Khurja for which he had worked so long. In gratefully acknowledging the services of the other gentlemen who have evinced special interest in the work of administration, the Lieutenant-Governor wishes specially to single out at this juncture a class which, connected with municipalities since their inception, is about to disappear. It is largely owing to the guiding hand of the official chairman that municipalities have now reached a position when that guidance can be withdrawn, and in dealing with the many difficulties which will meet them in the future municipal boards will doubtless remember with gratitude what in the past they have sometimes been inclined to ignore, the wise control and the singleness of purpose of their official heads. In their absence the responsibilities resting on the non-official members will be greater and more direct; but the Lieutenant-Governor trusts that they will guard against the more immediate perils, the danger that public spirit may be stifled by the factious opposition which has been evident in several municipalities, that enthusiasm for increased responsibility may be accompanied by distaste for increased work, and that the repositories of executive power may be hampered in their activities by jealousy of their authority. If these dangers are steadily watched and averted, the work of self-government ought to be fruitful in good results. It has the kindliest wishes of the Local Government.

ORDER.—Ordered that a copy of this resolution be forwarded to all Commissioners of divisions for information and communication to the chairmen of municipal boards.

Ordered also that a copy be published in the United Provinces Government Gazette for general information.

By order of the Hon'ble the Lieutenant-Governor, United Provinces.

This Government's (Municipal department) resolution no. 535, dated the 8th February, 1917, on municipal administration in the year 1915-16.

OBSERVATIONS.—The year under review was one of the most important in the history of municipalities in these provinces, being chiefly memorable for the passing into law of the new Municipalities Act (II of 1916). This measure consolidated the various enactments relating to municipalities and made important amendments in and additions to the provisions of those enactments, reforms which had long been overdue. From a political point of view its prominent feature was that it had as one of its main objects the removal of the guidance and control exercised by official chairmen and the endowment of the emancipated non-official boards with adequate powers to manage the affairs of municipalities and to prove their fitness for the exercise of the functions of self-government.

Administration and elections.

2. The new Act came into force on the 1st July, 1916. Sections 11 and 12 of the Act contain provisions for separate class representation and prescribe the amount of representation to be given to the Muslim and to all other communities respectively in accordance with a compromise arrived at by representatives of those communities on the provincial Legislative Council. As it was intended that boards should not be given the right to elect their chairmen until they had been reconstituted in accordance with those provisions, it was necessary to take steps to revise the constitutions of the boards. Advantage was at the same time taken of this opportunity to introduce a system of triennial elections in place of the previous system of annual elections—a change which was generally welcomed by the boards. Several boards, however, asked and obtained permission to postpone their reconstitution till the end of the year under report; while other boards, mainly of smaller municipalities, preferred to retain their official chairmen for the time being. Considerable progress was, however, made in the reconstitution of boards, with the result that before the end of the year out of the total number of 84 boards 59, including practically all the larger boards, had elected non-official chairmen. These changes were carried out with great harmony and expedition, except in the case of a few municipalities, where Hindu candidates either declined to stand or resigned after election on the ground that they were dissatisfied with the constitutions proposed for their boards. The Commissioners, however, report that the interests of the Hindu community have in no way suffered and that the work of the boards has not deteriorated owing to the absence of these few Hindu members.

3. Another change affecting the constitution of the boards is the provision in section 9 of the Act that in municipalities where provision is made for separate representation of Muslim and non-Muslim communities the maximum number of nominated members should not exceed one-fourth of the prescribed number of elected members and that of these nominated members not more than two should be nominated by the Local Government, the remainder being nominated by nominating bodies constituted by rule. As a result of the various changes the total number of members of boards at the end of the year was 1,019 only as compared with 1,116 in the preceding year. The decrease is due to the reduction in the number of nominated and ex-officio members, which fell from 274 in 1915-16 to 150 in the year under report. (The nominated members include not only the members nominated by the Government but also the members nominated by nominating bodies, while the ex-officio members include the chairmen who were not members of boards at the time of their election as chairmen and who are members merely by virtue of their holding the office of chairman.) On the other hand, the number of elected members increased from 842 to 869. These changes also account for the very considerable reduction in the number of official members which fell from 142 to 85.

4. The general elections for the reconstitution of boards aroused great interest, the fact that the boards were to be allowed to elect their own chairmen and to be set free from immediate official control leading to very keen contests in most of the municipalities. The elections were followed by a large number of election petitions, there being four in the Agra division, five in the Benares division, six in the Meerut division and seventeen in the Rohilkhand division. The numbers in the other divisions have not been reported. The fact that most of these petitions were either dismissed or withdrawn is a tribute to the general honesty with which the elections were conducted and to the efficient control of returning officers. It is regrettable, however, to observe that in four cases, which were tried in the Bareilly division, it was found necessary to disqualify candidates for malpractices for five years and in one case to prosecute a voter for personation and that in a case which was tried in the Fyzabad division there was reason to suspect the bona fides of the returning officer.

5. Provision has been made in the new Act for the appointment of executive officers, in whom is vested under the Act power to carry out the details of municipal work, the boards themselves retaining control over the work by the enactment of byelaws and regulations and also by exercising the power of appeal from certain orders of the executive officer. Although the Local Government has power to require the appointment of an executive officer by boards of city municipalities only, it is interesting to observe that several other boards have of their own accord appointed executive officers. As time goes on the remaining boards will no doubt realise the advantages of appointing executive officers or of delegating extensive powers in matters of detail, retaining in their own hands the power of dictating the general policy to be pursued and full financial control. The Act also permits of a wide delegation of powers to committees and this has been taken advantage of by most boards. In some municipalities, however, particularly in the case of some of the smaller municipalities, it has been observed by Commissioners that boards appear to be still jealous of delegating any of their powers and that a considerable amount of time is wasted by such boards in discussing individual cases of patronage and of the application of the board's own rules and byelaws which cannot suitably be dealt with by the collective board.

The arrangements that most boards have thus made for the disposal of the routine work in a more businesslike and expeditious manner should result in a reduction in the number of the meetings of the collective board, but during the year under report there must have been a considerable set-off owing to the numerous meetings which boards had to hold for the purpose of passing amended byelaws and regulations, and of proposing amended rules in order to bring them into accordance with the provisions of the new Act. The total number of meetings held by all the boards actually shows a slight increase. The figures cannot, however, be usefully contrasted with those of the preceding year, as the method of enumerating meetings under the new Act differs from that under the old. The old Act provided that special kinds of business must be transacted at a special meeting and as ordinary and special meetings were usually held at the same sitting every such sitting was counted as two meetings. Under the new Act this distinction disappears, provision being now made for such special business being done by means of a special resolution instead of at a special meeting. This technical change alone should have resulted in a very considerable reduction in the number of meetings and statement no. I shows a considerable reduction in the case of the larger municipalities. Some of the smaller municipalities, however, show an increase in the number of meetings, but it is doubtful whether the figures are correct. It is not clear, for example, why the municipal board of Nagina should head the list with 61 meetings, when 14 were found sufficient in the case of Lucknow.

The average attendance of members at meetings was very satisfactory, there being a substantial increase in the percentage of attendance in most cases. A few of the returns appear to be incorrect, the boards having entered, apparently, the average number of members present instead of the average percentage. But from the correct statistics received it appears that in at least 77 municipal boards the average attendance was over 50 per cent. while in 33 boards it was over 70. There was a reduction in the total number of meetings which had to be adjourned for want of a quorum, but the returns for Jhansi and Banda are again unsatisfactory. In Jhansi 16 out of 43 and in Banda 11 out of 35 meetings had to be adjourned for this reason. The only other municipalities which show bad returns are Khurja, where one-fourth of the meetings, Mainpuri, Bisalpur and Khairabad where more than one-fifth of the meetings had to be so adjourned.

6. The changes in the new Act were so numerous that it was necessary to overhaul and revise practically all the rules, byelaws and regulations previously made by or for municipal boards. This involved a very considerable amount of work which most of the boards carried through in a very efficient manner, although the Lieutenant-Governor regrets to observe that in a few cases boards have not yet set their house in order in this matter.

Revision of octroi.

7. The heavy work thrown upon boards in connection with their reconstitution, elections, the transfer of the office of chairman from officials to non-officials and the revision of rules, byelaws and regulations naturally left little time for the introduction or consideration of any other important changes. As the final instructions of the Government of India on the principles to be observed in the imposition of terminal taxation had not been received before the close of the year under report no further progress could be made in the abolition of octroi. Octroi, therefore, remained in force in 34 municipalities, the same number as last year. (The octroi in Cawnpore is merely an octroi on animals imported for slaughter or sale.)

Octroi receipts.

8. The net octroi income shows a further increase of 2½ lakhs on the figures of the previous year, and although it is nearly two lakhs less than the income of 1913-14, the figure for that year included a sum of Rs. 2,27,000 realised in 16 municipalities in which octroi is now no longer in force. The increase is common to each of the eight classes and was fairly evenly distributed throughout the province. In some municipalities the increase was exceptionally large, Lucknow in particular obtaining an income of Rs. 65,000 in excess of the income of the previous year and Rs. 20,000 in excess of the highest income on record.

The only municipalities that show a decline are Hardwar Union, Hapur, Hathras, Agra and Tilhar. The decrease is accounted for in most of these cases by the abnormal increase in imports of grain in the preceding year and an equally abnormal increase in exports in the year under report. In the case of Hardwar however the decrease is said to be due to the smaller number of visitors, the falling off in the goods traffic and the reduction in the railway service owing to the war.

The percentage of refunds to gross receipts remained practically the same as last year, viz., 21·8. In view of the fact that octroi will, it is hoped, soon be abolished in most municipalities it would serve no useful purpose to analyse the figures. It is sufficient to note that the wasteful nature of this tax is again demonstrated by the percentages of refunds in many municipalities. Hathras e.g. had to collect a gross amount of about Rs. 94,000 in order to obtain an income of Rs. 39,000, while Agra out of a gross income of Rs. 5,69,000 had to refund Rs. 2,60,000. The defects of the tax can be even more strikingly exemplified by an examination of the figures for the various classes of articles in the various municipalities, as is shown by the extracts from the returns given below :—

Income.

9. The aggregate municipal income, in spite of a reduction of 4·64 lakhs in contributions from Government, rose from 94·42 lakhs to 97·64 lakhs. There was thus an increase in municipal revenues, leaving Government contributions out of consideration, of 7·86 lakhs. Out of this sum 6·76 lakhs was due to an increase in the income from taxation. As noted above, octroi accounted for an increase of 2½ lakhs, while the income from the terminal tax and toll in Cawnpore rose by 2·85 lakhs. The increase in the latter case was due to the fact that the board had in the preceding year imposed higher rates of terminal taxes, which were in force for the whole of the year under report but were in force for three months only in the preceding year. The other principal increases in the receipts from taxation were ·17 lakh from the tax on houses and lands, ·68 from water tax, ·20 from the tax on circumstances and property, ·19 from tolls and ·11 from conservancy tax. The increase in the income from the water tax and the general tax on buildings and lands is largely due to the revision of assessments. Although the receipts from the pilgrim tax are practically the same as those of the previous year there is a large reduction in the income under this head in the Hardwar Union municipality (which is due to the fact that in the preceding year there was an abnormal increase in income owing to the Kumbh Mela) counterbalanced by a large increase in Fyzabad due to a return to normal conditions.

The revenue from sources of income other than taxation shows an increase of over one lakh. The figures under the different heads however show considerable variations from the figures of preceding years but this is mainly due to a different classification being adopted in the posting of the accounts. Under the old rules boards had to maintain two separate sets of accounts, one of which was adopted for the budget, the monthly accounts and the annual report; while the other was in the form of statements II and III appended to this resolution and was used only for the annual report. It was decided to abolish the duplicate sets of forms for the annual report and to adopt the form of statements II and III for the budget and the monthly accounts, and clearer instructions were issued as to the method of filling up these forms. From the reports now received it appears that, as the members of boards were interested mainly in the forms used for the budget, etc., the conversion of the figures shown in that form into the statistics in the statements attached was not accurately made, and one of the results of the adoption of a single form of accounts has been that the boards have discovered that many of their returns were incorrectly posted in the statements of previous years. This is more particularly the case with the heads 28, "rents of lands, etc." and 33 "fees and revenues from markets and slaughter houses," the former of which shows a reduction of Rs. 47,000 while the latter shows an increase of Rs. 97,000. A considerable portion of these variations is due to readjustments between the two heads, so that for the purposes of comparison with the figures of previous years the totals of these two heads should be taken together. The only municipalities which show a genuine substantial increase under rents are Cawnpore (Rs. 7,800), Allahabad (Rs. 4,820), and Bulandshahr (Rs. 1,800), where the increases are due to enhancement of rents. There is little doubt that the income under these heads is capable of considerable expansion. The reduction under head "26A—From other sources" of Rs. 8,000 is also nominal, being due to a transfer of that amount to head no. 35(d) in the accounts of the Mussooree municipality. The very large reduction of Rs. 71,000 in the income from "sale proceeds of lands, etc." (column 29) is due to the fact that the income in the preceding year included exceptional items amounting to Rs. 83,000, derived from the sale of building sites on new roads in the Aligarh, Allahabad and Benares municipalities, while the present year's figures include only Rs. 12,000 increase on this account in the Bareilly and Ujhani municipalities where extension and improvement schemes are in progress. The conservancy receipts show an increase of Rs. 14,000, the municipal boards of Bareilly, Moradabad, Fatehgarh and Gorakhpur being responsible for an increase of Rs. 16,500, while the income at Allahabad was reduced by Rs. 2,500 owing to the cessation of certain work which the board of that municipality had undertaken in connection with the Public Works department. The supervision over the collection of this source of revenue appears to be lax in many municipalities where considerable amounts of unrealized arrears are reported. "Miscellaneous" income [column 35(e)] shows an increase of Rs. 37,000, Rs. 25,000 of which is due to an increase in the sale of electric current by the municipal boards of Dehra and Mussooree. The income from "recoveries for services rendered" (column 52) is liable to great fluctuations and there is a net decrease of Rs. 17,000 in spite of an increase of nearly Rs. 21,000 in Mussooree, due mainly to the increased sale of electrical fittings by the board of that municipality. The increase of Rs. 83,000 in the income under "other items" (column 53) is accounted for by the increase of Rs. 45,000 in the income of the Muttra board under this head, which includes a sum of Rs. 40,000, being the provisional amounts deposited by intending purchasers of building sites in the new suburb of Dampiernagar, and of Rs. 39,300 in the case of Lucknow, due to the inclusion of a sum of Rs. 47,856 derived from the sale of materials from the emergency town-planning schemes.

The income from "sale of water" again shows an increase of Rs. 26,000, but the real improvement is Rs. 6,000 only, as the increase of Rs. 20,000 in the case of Meerut is nominal, being due to a change in the system of credit of dues from cantonments. The principal increases under this head were Rs. 16,000 in Cawnpore, Rs. 6,500 in Mirzapur, Rs. 3,000 in Naini Tal, and Rs. 2,000 in Benares. As against this there was a decrease of Rs. 15,000 in the case of Lucknow, which is attributed to the scarcity of water owing to a breakdown in the supply, of Rs. 2,000 in Allahabad which is said to be due to the completion of the High Court and other extensive works which were being carried out by the Public Works department and of Rs. 7,000 in the case of Agra. The reduction in the income in Agra is attributed by the Commissioner to the lack of supervision and to the want of control over waste of water, and there can be little doubt that many of the municipalities are not obtaining their full income from this source. The chairman of the Benares municipal board for example writes that, "In all schemes for the prevention of waste the co-operation of citizens is most essential; it is a matter of regret that this co-operation is not secured. Taps are still kept running full bore and bad and defective fittings are not brought to the notice of the authorities. If the citizens will co-operate with the board the question of giving a constant supply of water would be brought within the region of practical politics. It is essential moreover that they should realise that it costs money to supply water. At present almost Rs. 90,000 per annum has to be found from sources other than water tax and the sale proceeds of water." The chairman of the Allahabad board says that the water-works "draw largely on the general income of the board and hamper the introduction of necessary reforms." The Lieutenant-Governor cannot but feel that all respectable people would set their faces against the wilful waste of water which is at present too common, if they could be got to realize that it defrauds the tax-payer and is a danger to health. If they shut their eyes to those obvious facts, the boards have every justification for treating the offenders as criminals.

It is satisfactory to observe that for the first time in the history of the municipalities of this province, one board has been able to raise an income from water-rate and other charges for water equal to the expenditure on water. The municipal board of Cawnpore collected an income of Rs. 2,51,000 from these sources, while the total expenditure on maintenance charges and the interest and repayment of loans amounted to Rs. 2,42,000. The board also expended nearly Rs. 16,000 in addition on the extension of the mains which will no doubt prove remunerative. The reasons for these excellent results are given in the following extract from the chairman's report: "The wastage of water has been carefully checked and the waste water meters have been made good use of in detection of wastage and remedying the causes." A water-supply system should be run as far as possible on a commercial basis with a view to obtaining an income equal to the expenditure, and the Lieutenant-Governor trusts that boards will do their utmost to realise this result. An excellent start has been made by the rules made under the new Act for most of the municipalities concerned which require that private connections shall be metered if used for non-domestic purposes or if the diameter of the connection pipe or of the ferrule exceeds half an inch. If the rules are strictly enforced the income from water should in most municipalities more nearly approximate to the expenditure.

The Lieutenant-Governor regrets to have again to draw the attention of boards to the necessity of taking steps to secure the prompt collection of municipal dues. The Municipalities Act provides boards with ample powers for the speedy realisation of their demands from persons who do not readily pay and His Honour trusts that boards will by a free use of these powers remedy the present unsatisfactory state of affairs. The want of promptness in the collection of municipal dues and the accumulation of arrears encourage the recalcitrant, are a hardship to those who honestly and promptly pay their taxes, as they have thus to bear more than their fair share of the municipal burdens, and facilitate malpractices. Although there are some honourable exceptions (as, for example, Cawnpore and Lucknow, where the collections are reported to have amounted to 99 and 95 per cent. of the demand respectively, Meerut where practically the whole of the house tax demand was collected, Aligarh, where all the demands are said to have been realised in full) the reports generally show considerable slackness in collections resulting in heavy loss to the boards owing to consequent remissions. The municipal board of Agra, for example, has arrears amounting to Rs. 1,33,000 on account of water-tax and tax on buildings and lands and further heavy arrears of rent, and the board has found it necessary to appoint a committee to discuss the question. In the Fatehgarh municipality there are arrears of nearly Rs. 17,000 on account of conservancy dues and in Bareilly arrears of Rs. 20,000 on account of rents. Many boards report considerable arrears due on account of rent of land, but the difficulties previously experienced in the collection of small sums due to the boards on this account can now be easily avoided by the summary procedure for the recovery of rents provided in section 291 of the new Act.

The income from fines shows a slight increase, which is, however, mainly due to an increase in fines in gambling cases. Complaints are met with in the reports of the reluctance of honorary magistrates to impose deterrent fines. The chairman of the Allahabad board, for example, says that "the punishments awarded in cases under the Municipal and Hackney Carriage Acts are still inadequate for the purpose of enforcing the observance of municipal rules and byelaws which, I am sorry to admit, are ignored with impunity.". Similar complaints of the leniency of the sentences awarded by the Bench come from Fatehgarh.

Financial position of boards.

10. The financial position of the boards is on the whole satisfactory, but in few cases have the boards an income more than sufficient for the maintenance of their present services, so that there is great need for economy and for the development of existing resources, if an early expansion of the boards' activities is to be looked for. The municipal boards of Tilhar and Chandausi (excluding, in the case of the latter, the unexpended balance of a Government grant) closed the year with a balance less than the prescribed minimum and it will probably be necessary for these boards to make up the deficiency by exploring fresh fields of taxation. The Ballia municipal board was not able during the year to restore its finances to a satisfactory position, the recurring income being estimated to be Rs. 30,000 and the recurring expenditure about Rs. 34,000. The board had however to postpone temporarily the settlement of the question owing to the serious damage wrought in the municipality by heavy floods. Considerable economies in expenditure were effected during the year by the Naini Tal board, but the position of that board is not yet satisfactory. The financial position of the Nawabganj (Bara Banki) municipal board has again been the subject of adverse comment. In the preceding year the board had collected Rs. 2,000 in advance in order to balance the accounts. In the current year Rs. 2,000 of income was in arrears, while the board owed about Rs. 2,800 the payment of which had been postponed. The board has so far shown no inclination to put its finances in order.

Improvement Trusts.

11. The accounts of the Improvement Trusts are briefly as follows:—

	Allahabad.	Cawnpore.	Lucknow.
	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.
Opening balance	65,835	51,027	92,723
Receipts	44,965	73,025	80,562
Charges	45,422	85,283	62,619
Closing balance	65,378 +50,000 in Government promissory notes.	38,769	1,10,666

The two new roads in Allahabad connecting the Hewett Road with the Grand Trunk Road were completed during the year, but the sale of building sites upon these roads has been postponed pending the decision of questions which have been raised regarding the porticoes and footpaths. The committee reports that other schemes are under consideration but have not yet been finally approved or passed.

The construction of buildings on the A. B. Road in Cawnpore continued during the year and most of the buildings have now been completed and occupied. A plot in the adjoining area of the Topkhana Bazar was acquired and laid out and the building sites in this plot were sold during the year. Houses in bazars and streets adjoining the A. B. Road were also acquired for the improvement of communications and the relief of congestion and some of the sites were disposed of. The report of the committee appointed by the Government to consider the question of the expansion of Cawnpore had not been received by the close of the year and the Improvement Trust Committee was, therefore, not able to embark upon any new schemes of an ambitious nature. It has, however, prepared a scheme for the acquisition and lay-out of a considerable plot in the Talaq Mahal, but the scheme had not been submitted to the Sanitary Board before the end of the year under report.

The Improvement Trust Committee at Lucknow reports that building operations continue on the Ganga Prasad Road and the Kutcherry Road and have been started on the Nadan Mahal Road, but that although many sites have been sold upon the last-named road further sales have been postponed as there is little demand for sites at present. Building operations were continued in the Ganeshganj market, where the roads and the drains have also been finished, but the open space in front of the market has still to be turfed and laid out. Owing to the high compensation fixed for the acquisition of the sites which it was proposed to acquire on the plots fronting on the Aminabad Road in connection with the Jutawali Gali scheme, the Trust Committee at first decided to acquire only the old Aminabad sarai and the land to the west of it, but subsequently decided to carry out the scheme in its original form. The board continued during the year the work of re-planning the areas that had been damaged by the floods and has recorded its opinion that these operations have resulted in substantial sanitary improvements which are reflected in the vital statistics for the year.

Municipal expenditure.

12. The expenditure of the year, apart from expenditure in connection with the repayment of loans, was Rs. 78,000 in excess of the expenditure of the previous year. Capital outlay in connection with water-works, however, decreased by more than one lakh, while the expenditure on drainage works remained practically the same. Deducting the expenditure of 14·8 lakhs on original water and drainage works, the expenditure on the other services of the boards amounted to 78·43 lakhs as against 76·55 in the preceding year. In expenditure as in income owing to the adoption of one uniform method of accounts there has been some revised classification, but the differences are not so marked as in the case of income. The only heads which show substantial variations are lighting (increase of Rs. 59,000), capital outlay on water-works (decrease of Rs. 1,12,000), establishment and repairs of water-supply (increase of Rs. 77,000), buildings (increase of Rs. 30,000), roads (increase of Rs. 50,000), education (increase of Rs. 82,000); while there was a reduction of Rs. 1,09,000 in the expenditure on fairs and of Rs. 1,14,000 on miscellaneous expenditure. The increase in the expenditure on lighting is general to almost all the boards, Naini Tal and Lucknow being the only boards that show an appreciable reduction under this head. The increase was mainly due to the rise in the price of lighting materials. Cawnpore spent an additional Rs. 9,000 in carrying out a further instalment of its scheme for lighting all the streets with electricity. Further progress was made with the electric schemes for Lucknow and Allahabad, but they were not in working order by the end of the year, so far as street lighting was concerned. The Allahabad board views its liabilities under the guarantee to the Electric Company with some complacency in view of the great demand for current from private consumers.

The large reduction in the capital expenditure on water-works is mainly due to the circumstances created by the war. The more important water-works projects of the year were the re-organisation of the Agra water-supply, the completion of the Muttra water-works, the sinking of tube wells to supplement the supply at Allahabad, Lucknow and Benares, the extension of mains at Cawnpore and the completion of the pumping station, wells and suction pipes for Fyzabad and Ajodhya. The increase of Rs. 77,000 in the expenditure on establishment and repairs is accounted for by new expenditure owing to the opening of water-works at Hardwar and Muttra of Rs. 20,000 and Rs. 6,000 respectively, while the expenditure at Benares increased by Rs. 28,000, at Allahabad by Rs. 24,000 (attributed to the increase in the amount of water pumped, the working of tube wells as precautionary measure against apprehended breakdown and the necessity of purchasing a large number of spare parts), and at Lucknow by Rs. 5,000. On the other hand there were reductions of Rs. 8,000 and Rs. 5,000 in the cases of Cawnpore and Naini Tal respectively. The experience of the year, particularly the unfortunate experiences of Allahabad and Lucknow, has again emphasised the necessity for a special agency to supervise water-works machinery and proposals for the establishment of such an agency are being discussed with municipal boards.

Of the total expenditure of Rs. 5,46,000 on new drainage works nearly Rs. 3,00,000 were expended in the municipalities of Allahabad and Lucknow, Rs. 1,53,000 being expended in the former city mainly on the construction of sewers, a pumping station and a sewage farm and Rs. 1,45,000 in the latter, mainly on the establishment of a new sullage farm. The only other municipalities in which any substantial sums were expended were Benares, where Rs. 67,000 were spent in improving old drains in certain muhallas, Cawnpore which expended Rs. 45,000 in constructing a new underground drain, paving a footpath and paving narrow lanes in the city, and Muttra where Rs. 45,000 were expended on a surface drainage scheme.

The total expenditure on conservancy remained practically the same. The slight reduction under this head in most municipalities is due to the reduction in the cost of food stuffs for cattle. The most substantial reductions were in Benares (Rs. 17,000), Allahabad (Rs. 10,000), Saharanpur and Dehra (Rs. 8,000), and Budaun (Rs. 5,000), but this was counterbalanced by increases in other municipalities, e.g. Pilibhit showed an increase of Rs. 16,000, Agra Rs. 11,000, Cawnpore Rs. 11,000, Moradabad Rs. 6,000 and Lucknow Rs. 5,000. The increase in the case of some of the larger municipalities appears to be mainly due to increased expenditure on road watering. The Meerut municipal board has introduced an interesting and successful experiment in watering roads by means of hose pipes which are attached to stand pipes erected at intervals of 100 feet. The expenditure on markets and slaughter houses again shows a regrettable decrease of Rs. 10,000. Although the printing charges for the year show an average increase of 10 per cent. the increases are exceptionally large in the Benares, Cawnpore and Agra municipalities. It is presumed that this is mainly due to the extra printing involved in connection with the publication of rules and byelaws. The expenditure on law charges increased by Rs. 13,000; but Rs. 9,000 of this was due to an increase on this account in Mussooree owing to some special cases in which the board was involved. The large reduction of Rs. 1,09,000 in the expenditure on fairs is accounted for by the reduction of Rs. 1,10,000 in the amount expended at Hardwar.

The decrease of Rs. 1,14,000 in miscellaneous expenditure [47(f)] has not been explained but it seems likely that a considerable portion of it is due to a more correct classification of expenditure. Some boards, however, show (probably incorrectly) substantial sums under the head; Lucknow in particular shows Rs. 2·43 lakhs which is two-thirds of the total for the province.

Public works.

13. The expenditure on buildings is subject to natural fluctuations. The total expenditure for the year was in excess of the expenditure of the preceding year. The only substantial items of expenditure under this head occurred in Muttra where over Rs. 40,000 were expended in laying out the model suburb of Dampiernagar and in Agra where an increase of Rs. 26,000 is due to improvements made in the roofing of the principal grain market. The expenditure on roads shows a further increase of Rs. 50,000 but the expenditure under this head continues in many cases to be most unsatisfactory. The Commissioner of Fyzabad speaks of a tendency on the part of all the boards in his division (except Balrampur) to starve their roads, the chairman of the Moradabad board says that all the roads in that municipality are in a bad state of repair while the disgraceful condition of the roads in Jhansi and Unao is commented on by reviewing officers. The large reduction in the case of Aligarh is due to the inclusion in the figures of the previous year of Rs. 50,000 paid as compensation for land acquired for a new road in the civil station. Cawnpore spent Rs. 51,000 more than in the previous year mainly in continuing its schemes for paving busy streets and bridges with granite sets and in widening the metalled portion of other streets. Lucknow also expended Rs. 31,000 more than in the preceding year. His Honour trusts that all boards will recognise that the maintenance in good order of the roads is one of their elementary duties.

Education.

14. The expenditure shown in column 38 on schools and colleges increased by Rs. 57,000, while the expenditure on contributions for education shown in column 39 increased by Rs. 44,000. The accounts of individual municipalities, however, show in many cases reductions in column 38 or in column 39, but these are mainly due to transfers between these two columns; some municipal boards having handed over their educational work to the district boards to whom they agreed to pay a contribution or having resumed the contribution and again undertaken the direct management of their schools. The total increase, therefore, in recurring expenditure on education was Rs. 1,01,000. Very little progress has been made in the improvement of school buildings. Many of the boards have not yet been able to expend the grants received from Government for this purpose owing to the difficulty, it is stated, of obtaining suitable sites in the larger towns. The towns showing the largest increase in expenditure on education are Lucknow (Rs. 24,000), Bareilly (Rs. 8,000), Cawnpore (Rs. 10,000), Allahabad (Rs. 11,000), Benares (Rs. 8,000), Rae Bareli (Rs. 5,000). The Cawnpore board has now decided to fall in with the policy adopted by the boards of the other more important municipalities and appoint a qualified inspector to supervise their educational work. It increased the number of boys' schools from 22 to 28 and the number of girls' schools from 4 to 8, the number of boys attending school increasing by 30 per cent. and the number of girls by 80 per cent. Allahabad also opened four new schools for boys and two for girls and established a training class for teachers. The number of boys attending school in that municipality rose from 2,061 to 2,351 and the number of girls from 270 to 373. Out of a total expenditure of Rs. 74,981 in Lucknow, Rs. 38,730 were spent on primary education. The board opened six new schools including two preparatory schools for the children of the depressed classes. The latter is an interesting experiment which the Local Government will watch with interest. These schools are held in the morning and in the evening and the number of pupils on the roll was 27 at the end of the year. In spite of the considerable increase in expenditure the statistics in appendix A show that there is considerable leeway to be made up in many municipalities, the variations in the percentage of children attending school in the different towns being considerable. There is the usual complaint of the difficulty experienced in obtaining teachers for girls' schools.

Vital statistics.

15. Vital statistics are dealt with in detail in the annual report of the Sanitary Commissioner and it is only necessary to mention the outstanding features of the year. The year was on the whole a healthy one although there were outbreaks of plague and cholera in a few municipalities. The average birth-rate again rose and the figure now reached (45·15) has been exceeded only once in the last 36 years. How far more accurate registration has contributed to this result it is difficult to state; registration has undoubtedly improved owing to the enforcement of compulsory registration in many municipalities. In some municipalities however the statistics are reported to be unreliable, particularly in the case of Banda which shows 638 infants vaccinated as against 509 births for the year. The death-rate again shows a satisfactory decrease to 36·54 per mille, but the returns from some municipalities, as for example Nawabganj (Bara Banki) (22·72) and Bahraich (20·44), appear to be suspiciously low. Although there has been a slight decline in the infant death-rate in most municipalities this cannot be attributed to any effective action taken by boards to check preventible causes of death amongst children, and the appallingly high average rate (227·61) still prevailing will, the Lieutenant-Governor hopes, spur boards to more vigorous and effective action in this matter. Vaccination is on the whole favourably reported upon but it was unsatisfactory in the municipalities of Farrukhabad, Jhansi, Mau, Lucknow, Sitapur, Fyzabad, Bahraich, Nawabganj (Bara Banki) and Sultanpur. In Jhansi and Lucknow, for example, the number of infants vaccinated was less than half the number of births, while in Sultanpur out of 342 surviving infants only 77 were vaccinated. His Honour concurs with the Commissioner of Fyzabad in his opinion that the excuse put forward for the Sultanpur figures, viz., the prevalence of plague during 2½ months of the vaccination season, is a most inadequate one.

General.

16. The period under review being one of transition and reorganization, no important developments in the working of the various departments of municipal activity were to be expected. The transition took place in different municipalities at different dates and the boards were working under the new system for a portion only of the year. The system has been under trial for too short a time to allow of any definite conclusions being drawn from past experience or of any prognostications being made as to future developments. The Lieutenant-Governor regrets to observe that on a few boards, which are thereby exposing themselves to the ridicule of the province, the spirit of faction has shown itself and questions have been determined by feelings of partisanship rather than by a consideration of the general good of the community. In the great majority of the municipalities on the other hand, the spirit of good fellowship with which the changes have been received and introduced, the co-operative loyalty (acknowledged by many non-official chairmen in their reports) exhibited by most members in their desire to make the new system a success and the proof of good sense and practical public spirit thus afforded give reason to hope that this great experiment and advance in local self-government will justify itself in the creation amongst members of municipal boards of a fuller sense of responsibility for the interests of their constituents and in arousing in the electorates a keener sense of interest in the doings of their representatives. The emancipated boards have been vested by the new Act with far greater powers than were possessed by the boards under official chairmen and Sir James Meston looks forward with confidence to a wide expansion of municipal activities through the exercise of their enhanced powers by fully responsible municipal commissioners under the stimulus of a critical electorate.

ORDER.—Ordered that a copy of this resolution be forwarded to all Commissioners of divisions for information and communication to the chairmen of municipal boards.

Ordered also that a copy be published in the United Provinces Government Gazette for general information.

REPORT

IN THE

UNITED PROVINCES OF AGRA AND OUDH.

FOR THE YEAR 1917-18.

No. 2842/XI—79.

RESOLUTION.

MUNICIPAL DEPARTMENT.

Dated Allahabad, the 13th November, 1918.

READ—

The divisional reviews submitted by Commissioners upon the administration and finances of municipalities during the year 1917-18.

READ ALSO—

This Government's (Municipal department) resolution no. 4299, dated the 30th November, 1917, on municipal administration in the year 1916-17.

Constitution.

OBSERVATIONS.—The reduction of the number of municipalities from 84 to 83 and the reduction of 10 in the total number of members of municipal boards are due to the conversion of the municipality of Kandhla into a notified area. To the same cause, combined with slight alterations in the boundaries of the Aligarh, Gorakhpur and Lucknow municipalities, is due the reduction of about 16,000 in the total municipal population of the province. The number of nominated official chairmen decreased from 23 to 21 and the number of elected non-official chairmen rose from 59 to 60. The municipal boards of Muttra, Lalitpur and Rae Bareli elected non-official chairmen for the first time during the year under report. The elected non-official chairman of Hapur resigned and was replaced, at the request of the board, by a nominated official. The municipal board of Chandpur, which was shown in the last report as having an elected non-official chairman, is shown in the present returns as having a nominated non-official chairman. The reason for the difference is that the two parties on the board held separate and independent meetings and each elected a chairman, with the result that the Commissioner had no alternative except to nominate a non-official for the post. There were few changes in the constitution of the boards as, owing to the system of triennial elections having been introduced in the preceding year, the only elections held during the year under report were for the purpose of filling casual vacancies or of re-constituting the few boards which had decided to postpone their reconstitution till the end of the year.

Meetings.

2. As the new Act was in force for the whole of the year and was in force for only nine months of the preceding year, the new method of enumerating meetings prescribed by the present Act (i.e., the replacing of the old distinction between special and ordinary meetings by a distinction between special and ordinary resolutions) and the delegation of powers to the committees or the staff of the board in matters that had previously to be decided by the collective board resulted in a further reduction in the total number of meetings held during the year, which fell from 2,245 to 1,721. There are still considerable variations between the number of meetings found necessary by individual boards. While the provincial average is 21 meetings, the Fatehgarh board found it necessary to hold 45 meetings, the Ghazipur board 44, and the Khairabad board 40. These figures appear to indicate that many boards have not yet delegated their routine duties to the staff or to committees. The municipal board of Deoband held only 10 meetings and the Lalitpur board 11, and thus neither of these boards complied with the provision of section 86 of the Act, which requires that there should be at least one meeting of the board in every month. The Balrampur board held no meetings during four months of the year.

3. The attendance of members at meetings was again satisfactory. In only 10 municipalities was the average percentage of non-official members present at a meeting less than 50 per cent., while in 65 municipalities it was over 60 per cent. and in 33 municipalities over 70 per cent. The number of meetings that proved abortive for want of a quorum fell from 127 to 110, but even this latter figure has been inflated by the bad records of a few boards, seven boards being responsible for more than half of the total. In Ghazipur 13 out of 44 and in Khairabad 12 out of 40 meetings had to be adjourned for this reason, while more than one-fourth of the meetings had to be so adjourned in the municipalities of Gonda, Mirzapur, Banda and Hathras.

Rules, byelaws and regulations.

4. Boards were still engaged during the year under report in revising and re-casting their rules, byelaws and regulations so as to bring them into accordance with the provisions of the new Act. It is disappointing to find that some boards have not even yet completed this work. The Commissioner of Rohilkhand, e.g., reports that the Bisalpur board has done nothing in this matter and that progress has been very slow in Najibabad, Sahaswan, Shahjahanpur and Tilhar. The Balrampur board has not yet passed any byelaws or proposed any draft rules. During the year a conference of representatives of municipal boards was held for the purpose of preparing model byelaws for the regulation of buildings, and in accordance with their recommendations a set of model byelaws was circulated to all municipal boards by the Local Government in August, 1917. The control of building operations is one of the most important functions entrusted to municipal boards and the health and sanitary conditions of a town are largely determined by the manner in which the boards discharge this function. It is mainly owing to the unsatisfactory manner in which this duty has been discharged in the past that the insanitary condition of many of our larger cities is due. The Local Government has under consideration at present proposals for legislation to enable town improvement and town expansion schemes being carried out in a more satisfactory manner than is possible under the present law; but the results that can be expected from the carrying out of such schemes or of other sanitary improvements will be speedily nullified if the erection of insanitary buildings and the growth of congestion is allowed to proceed owing to the lack of regulation of building operations by municipal boards. Sir Harcourt Butler is therefore much disappointed to find that very few boards have yet enacted satisfactory building byelaws and he urges Commissioners to impress upon the municipal boards of their divisions the need of enacting such byelaws and of making arrangements to secure that the provisions of the byelaws are rigidly observed.

Income.

5. The aggregate municipal income increased from 97·69 lakhs to 103·92 lakhs. Government contributions increased by one lakh, so that there was a net increase in ordinary municipal revenues of 5·23 lakhs. Out of this sum 1·64 lakh was due to the increase in the income from taxation.

6. Receipts from octroi, terminal tax, and toll.—The income under this head shows a net increase of 1·22 lakh, there being an improvement of 1·35 lakh under octroi, while there is a decrease of Rs. 13,000 in the receipts from the terminal tax and toll in Cawnpore. The increase under octroi is mainly accounted for by the large increase of Rs. 98,000 in the receipts from octroi on cloth due to the increase in prices of that commodity, the tax on which is an ad valorem one ; of Rs. 13,000 in the receipts from octroi on tobacco ; of Rs 24,000 from octroi on drugs and spices, and of Rs. 28,000 in the octroi on building materials. The only head under which there was a substantial decrease was the octroi on animals for slaughter, the receipts from which dropped from 2·13 lakhs to 1·75 lakhs. This latter decrease is common to all the divisions. The net receipts from octroi were in many municipalities the highest on record. The percentage of refunds to gross receipts rose from 21·8 to 29·05. There are the usual variations in the percentages for the different classes of articles and for the different municipalities, but it would serve no useful purpose to analyse these figures at present, as it is hoped that octroi will soon be replaced by other forms of taxation. The final orders of the Secretary of State and of the Government of India regarding the replacement of octroi by terminal taxation were received during the course of the year. Under these orders it will be possible to enlarge very greatly the scope of terminal taxation and to obtain from this source a very much higher revenue than was previously contemplated. These orders were communicated to municipal boards and a Bill was introduced and passed through the Legislative Council to amend the Municipalities Act so as to empower the Local Government, without reference to the Government of India, to sanction the imposition of a terminal tax in municipalities in which octroi is at present in force. This Bill received the assent of the Governor General on the 11th March, 1918, and passed into law on the 23rd March, 1918.

The net decrease of Rs. 12,950 in the revenue from the terminal tax and toll in Cawnpore is made up of an increase of Rs. 9,106 in the receipts from the toll and a decrease of Rs. 22,056 in the receipts from the tax. These variations are ascribed to the restrictions on railway traffic and the consequent increase in imports by road.

7. Income from taxation other than octroi, terminal tax, and terminal toll.—Taxes other than octroi, terminal tax and terminal toll produced an increase in revenue of Rs. 42,000. There are considerable variations, however, under the different heads. While there were increases of Rs. 50,000 in the receipts from the tax on houses and lands, of Rs. 11 000 in the receipts from the tax on animals and vehicles, of Rs. 33,000 in the income from tolls, and of Rs. 6,000 in the income from conservancy rates, there were decreases of Rs. 21,000 in the income from tax on professions and trades, of Rs. 3,000 from the tax on circumstances and property, and of Rs. 16,000 from the tax on pilgrims. Some of these variations are due to alterations in the system of taxation in particular municipalities and to the imposition of fresh taxation. Of the total increase of Rs. 50,000 under receipts from the tax on houses and lands more than half (Rs. 26,500) was accounted for by the imposition of this tax for the first time in the municipalities of Moradabad and Jaunpur. But there were substantial increases in the income from this tax in Agra (Rs. 10,000), Cawnpore (Rs. 5,000), Mussooree (Rs. 5,000), Meerut (Rs. 4,000), Naini Tal (Rs. 2,000), Muzaffarnagar and Bulandshahr (Rs. 1,000), while the only municipality that had a considerable decrease in receipts was Benares, where the collections were Rs. 6,000 less than those of the preceding year. The increase in most of these municipalities is due to the natural growth of income owing to re-assessments or the erection of new buildings, but the large increase in the case of Agra is mainly due to the collection of arrears. The decrease in Benares is ascribed to delays in the revision of assessment.

The reduction of the receipts from the water tax was a serious one. The net reduction was only Rs. 18,000, but as there were increases of

Rs. 35,000 in the income of four municipalities, due to the imposition of the tax for the first time in Muttra (where it brought in a revenue of Rs. 18,000), and to increases of Rs. 8,000 each in Agra and Cawnpore and of Rs. 1,000 in Naini Tal, the total fall in revenue in the remaining municipalities amounted to Rs. 53,000 This was almost entirely due to large reductions in the income of the three municipalities of Benares (—Rs. 21,000), Allahabad (—Rs. 19,000), and Lucknow (—Rs. 12,000). The increases in Agra, Cawnpore and Naini Tal were due to the same reasons as those given for the increases in the revenue from the general tax on buildings and lands and similarly the reduction in the case of Benares was due to the delay in completing the assessments and disposing of objections to the assessments. The decrease in the case of Allahabad is due to the board having suspended the collection of the tax for three months owing to a breakdown in the water-supply: the reduction in the case of Lucknow is attributed by the board to delay in the passing of certain rules.

While some municipalities show small receipts for the first time under the tax on animals and vehicles owing to the conversion of licence fees into a tax, the bulk of the increase under this head took place in the municipalities of Cawnpore (Rs. 4,000), Mussooree (Rs. 3,000), Benares (Rs. 2,500), and Lucknow (Rs. 2,000). The increase in Cawnpore is, however, partly due to collections in advance for the current year and that in Mussooree to the enhancement of the tax on rickshaws exceeding a certain width.

The net increase of Rs. 33,000 in the income from tolls is mainly due to the imposition of a toll for the first time in the municipalities of Ghaziabad and Bulandshahr and to the toll being in force for the whole year in Sikandrabad, while it was in force for a portion only of the preceding year. This accounted for a new revenue of Rs. 36,000 under this head. There was also an increase of Rs. 4,000 in the income from tolls in the case of Chandausi (due to an increase in the rates) counterbalanced by reductions in the municipalities of Mussooree (—Rs. 3,400), Lakhimpur (—Rs. 1,600) and Naini Tal (—Rs. 1,000). The decrease in Mussooree is attributed to defalcations by two muharrirs who were prosecuted and convicted of embezzlement.

The increase of Rs. 6,500 in the income from conservancy rates occurred in the four municipalities of Mussooree, Agra, Cawnpore and Naini Tal. It may be noted that the last-named municipality is responsible for nearly half the total receipts under this head.

The net reduction of Rs. 21,000 in the income from the tax on professions and trades is due to the abolition of this tax in the municipalities of Ghaziabad, Bulandshahr, Sikandrabad and Kashipur, which accounts for a reduction of Rs. 25,000. In the municipalities in which this tax was retained there was a net increase of Rs. 4,000.

The slight reduction in the income from the tax on circumstances and property is mainly explained by the abolition of the Kandhla municipality, where an income of Rs. 7,000 used to be obtained from this tax, and the imposition of the tax for the first time in Kashipur, where it brought in a revenue of Rs. 5,800. There were, however, variations in other municipalities, the more important being the increase of Rs. 2,600 in the receipts in Fatehpur and the decrease of Rs. 3,500 in Khairabad. The increase in Fatehpur was due to the collection of arrears, while the large reduction in Khairabad is entirely due to laxity in collection on the part of the board.

The reduction of Rs. 16,000 in the income from the pilgrims' tax was shared by the three municipalities in which this tax is in force, Fyzabad showing a reduction of Rs. 8,000, Hardwar of Rs. 7,000, and Benares of Rs. 1,000. The decreases are generally ascribed to the reduction in the facilities for passenger traffic.

The Lieutenant-Governor, while acknowledging the promptitude with which the majority of boards have disposed of the work, regrets to observe the dilatory manner in which some boards have dealt with assessments to taxation. Some cases have been referred to above. The Commissioner of the Benares division states that "in Jaunpur the tax on the annual value of buildings and lands, sanctioned by the Government in 1916, has practically not been enforced owing to the fact that the committee appointed at the end of 1916 to hear the appeals against the valuation of the special officer have not yet finished their duties. At the close of the year the members of the committee had only dealt with the applications of three muhallas out of 20."

8. Income from sources other than taxation.—The revenue from sources other than taxation and Government contributions shows a net increase of Rs. 3,62,000. The greater portion of this increase, however, is non-recurring and due to exceptional conditions, there being an increase of only some Rs. 70,000 in recurring income. Of the increase in non-recurring income the greater portion occurs under the head "Miscellaneous other items," where the receipts rose from Rs. 2,12,000 to Rs. 4,76,000. Of the increase of Rs. 2,64,000 under this head Lucknow accounts for Rs. 1,48,000, the major portion of which is due to refunds and sale of materials in connection with certain improvement schemes. Under the same head there are, however, large increases in the case of most municipalities, which are due to the opening of shops for the sale of salt by the boards during the year. An account of the working of this novel municipal experiment would have been of interest and it is hoped that the reports and reviews of the current year will give a full account of this experiment. The total amount received on this account in the municipalities of the Rohilkhand division was Rs. 51,133. It will be observed that the increase in income under this head is counterbalanced by a corresponding increase in expenditure of Rs. 2,56,000 under "Other items—miscellaneous" [column 47(f).] The fluctuating head "Recoveries on account of services rendered to private individuals" (column 52) shows an increase of Rs. 46,000, and there is a corresponding increase of Rs. 39,000 on the expenditure side (column 46). On the other hand there is a reduction of Rs. 17,000 under the fluctuating head "Sale proceeds of lands, etc." and of Rs. 4,000 under "Contributions from local funds for medical purposes."

Of the increase in recurring income the most substantial items are those of Rs. 43,000 under income from investments due to the receipt of interest on money invested in the War Loan, of Rs. 37,000 under rents, and of a similar amount under the miscellaneous head. The increase under the last-mentioned head is mainly accounted for by the large increase of Rs. 26,000 in Mussooree in the receipts from the electrical scheme.

The increase of Rs. 37,000 under rents appears to be mainly due to the efforts made by a few boards to improve their income under this head although a portion of it is due to the charging of rents for projections over streets and drains under byelaws framed under the new Act. Commissioners have referred in commendatory terms to the action taken by some boards in this matter, but the income under this head, generally speaking, is far less than could be realised if the boards would only take adequate steps to secure rents more nearly approaching the market value for the properties which they either own or with the management of which they are entrusted. The Lieutenant-Governor invites the attention of Commissioners to the repeated orders which have been issued requiring boards to overhaul the registers of nazul land, to obtain due acknowledgment of Government rights in that land and to see that more adequate rents are fixed. He desires them to call for an early report from the boards which have not yet put their houses in order in this matter, and to deal with the question specially in regard to each board in their reviews for the current year. His Honour regrets that it was found necessary during the year under review to remove the management of nazul from the control of the municipal board of Rae Bareli owing to its refusing to take any action to assert Government rights in the nazul land entrusted to its management, the members of the board having, as stated by the Commissioner, "preferred their private interest to their duties as trustees of the public." He trusts that it will not be necessary to take similar action in other cases. Sir Harcourt Butler also regrets to find that in spite of the special facilities for the collection of rents afforded to municipal boards by section 291 of the Municipalities Act much laxity has prevailed in the collection of these dues. The large decrease of Rs. 10,000 in Allahabad is attributed entirely to heavy arrears which have been allowed to accumulate.

The most serious reduction in recurring income occurred under the head "Sale of water," which shows a decrease of Rs. 52,000. The decrease of Rs. 13,000 in the case of Meerut is, however, merely nominal as the receipts last year were inflated owing to a change in the system of credit of dues from cantonments, so that the real decrease is Rs. 65,000. There were increases of Rs. 5,000 in Agra (mainly owing to the collection of arrears) and of Rs. 6,000 in Mirzapur; Cawnpore showed a decrease of Rs. 5,000, which is attributed to certain disputed items having been adjusted in the preceding year. The breakdown of the supply in the municipalities of Lucknow and Allahabad was mainly responsible for the large reduction in income, the decreases being Rs. 27,000 and Rs. 17,000 respectively. Cawnpore was again the only board which showed receipts from water approximately equal to the expenditure on water, the total income being Rs. 2,54,000 and the total expenditure Rs. 2,59,000. The figures for the other municipalities, which are given in the table below, are most unsatisfactory :—

Municipality.	Charges.	Receipts.	Deficit.
	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.
Agra	2,08,340	1,48,828	59,512
Allahabad	2,46,566	1,36,743	1,09,823
Benares	3,27,916	1,23,886	2,04,030
Jhansi	12,671	6,974	5,697
Lucknow	2,40,734	1,22,574	1,18,160
Meerut	70,962	53,690	17,272
Mirzapur	23,012	14,104	8,908
Muttra	30,865	18,290	12,575
Mussooree	56,081	43,357	12,724
Naini Tal	63,880	42,683	21,197

The Lieutenant-Governor would again invite the attention of boards to the remarks in the review of last year and urge them to make more serious efforts to make the receipts and expenditure balance.

The other principal falls in recurring income are those of Rs. 18,000 under conservancy receipts and Rs. 12,000 under revenue from markets. While a portion of the decrease in the former is attributed to a change of system of disposing of sweepings and night-soil in some municipalities, the income under both heads should be capable of considerable expansion. Although there was a slight increase of Rs. 2,000 in the total income from fines the receipts in many municipalities show considerable reductions. In a few cases this appears to be due to the reluctance of boards to enforce the sanitary rules and byelaws, but the boards of Allahabad and Cawnpore in particular again complain of the inadequacy of fines imposed by the bench magistrates.

9. Collection of municipal dues.—The Lieutenant-Governor regrets that, in spite of the observations in the last year's review, many boards do not yet realise the necessity for promptitude in the collection of municipal dues. Some instances of slackness in this matter have been quoted in the preceding paragraphs. It is reported that arrears of the tax on circumstances and property in Fatehpur were "still high at the end of the year" and the Commissioner refers to the "passive resistance" of the board in enforcing the collections. The board speaks of the passive resistance of the rate-payers ; while the Commissioner refers to the fact that the vice-chairman and one other member did not pay the tax for one year and only paid it after the issue of warrants. The arrears in the Fatehgarh municipality on account of conservancy dues rose again from Rs. 16,819 to Rs. 18,205. The committee which was appointed by the Agra board to deal with the question of the huge arrears in that municipality made little progress, few arrears being collected and a few small sums being written off. The board states that the committee stopped its work "owing to the prevalence of plague and relapsing fever," but the Commissioner points out that "the question could have been disposed of before the epidemic began had the matter been really attacked with necessary energy." In Sultanpur and Bara Banki the arrears on account of assessed tax amounted to 36 and 30 per cent. of the demand respectively.

Expenditure.

10. Investments show an increase of 10 lakhs owing to investments in the War Loan. In addition boards invested substantial sums from their provident funds. The total expenditure increased by 2·07 lakhs. There was, however, an increase of 2·56 lakhs under the miscellaneous head of expenditure, which is due, as explained with regard to the corresponding receipts in paragraph 8 of this resolution, to some special non-recurring items and to the opening of salt shops in most municipalities. The capital outlay on water and drainage schemes however shows a reduction of 2·41 lakhs and 1·51 lakhs respectively, while the expenditure on buildings shows a reduction of ·54 lakh. These reductions were due to the difficulty of obtaining materials owing to the war. There was an increase of Rs. 40,000 in the cost of work done for private persons corresponding to the increase on the receipt side. Allowing for these exceptional items and the reduction in the expenditure on original works, the ordinary recurring expenditure shows a net increase of about 3 lakhs. The most substantial increase of Rs. 1,25,000 was in the cost of the establishment and repairs of water-works. Of this increase Rs. 14,000 is due to the opening of the water works at Muttra, while there were increases of Rs. 11,000 in Agra, Rs. 18,000 in Cawnpore, Rs. 13,000 in Allahabad, Rs. 38,000 in Benares, Rs. 5,000 in Mirzapur, Rs. 49,000 in Lucknow, and Rs. 2,000 in Fyzabad. The conservancy charges again show an increase of Rs. 53,000, and there was an increase of Rs. 41,000 in the amount spent on other sanitary works.

General establishment charges show a rise of Rs. 34,000 and drainage establishment of Rs. 27,000. The increase of Rs. 20,000 in lighting charges is due to the increased price of lighting accessories. The scheme for electric lighting in Cawnpore is now practically complete, there being 2,182 electric lights and only 31 oil lamps in that municipality. The progress in the electric lighting of Allahabad and Lucknow has been slow owing to war conditions. There is a regrettable decrease of Rs. 26,000 in the expenditure on markets and slaughter-houses. The large increase of Rs. 8,000 in refunds of taxes in Cawnpore is non-recurring, being due to the settlement of some outstanding claims in connection with the terminal tax. The other variations are unimportant.

The continued reduction in capital expenditure on water-works and drainage works is regrettable, but unavoidable. Nearly half of the capital outlay on water-works was incurred in Agra where 3½ lakhs were expended on the water-supply improvement scheme. In Allahabad over a lakh was expended on tube wells and Rs. 10,000 on the construction of tunnels at Karela Bagh. The three tube wells have been completed, but have not yet been fitted with pumps owing to the difficulty of obtaining materials on account of the war. In Lucknow over a lakh of rupees was also expended on the construction of tube wells and overhauling the plant at Gaughat. In Fyzabad the pumping plant and wells had been completed; but as the board delayed its proposals for the financing of the distribution system, the construction of the mains had ultimately to be postponed owing to the high price of materials, and the plant which was lying unutilized was acquired by the military authorities for use in Mesopotamia. The Allahabad municipal board continued the work on its main drainage scheme, which is now almost completed, Rs. 68,000 being expended during the year; and towards the end of the year it received a grant of Rs. 2,00,000 from the Local Government towards the cost of the Kydganj drainage scheme, which was one of the works recommended by the Pilgrim Committee. The Cawnpore board spent over Rs. 50,000 on the paving of narrow lanes and drainage schemes. The Lucknow board spent over Rs. 88,000 on various sanitary works. The Allahabad and Lucknow municipalities were again unfortunate in having serious breakdowns of the water-supply, but the other boards were able on the whole to maintain the water-supply in spite of difficulties in obtaining coal and spare parts for renewals.

Of the increase of Rs. 53,000 in conservancy charges, the major portion occurred in the two municipalities of Cawnpore and Allahabad, which spent Rs. 18,614 and Rs. 12,693 respectively more than in the preceding year. One reason for the increase in Allahabad is the substitution of the departmental system of removing rubbish and night-soil for the contract system; but it is unfortunate, as stated both by the Chairman and the Commissioner, that this change in system had led not to any improvement, but to the reverse. Most unfavourable comments are made on the conservancy arrangements in some municipalities, more particularly in those of Etawah, Jhansi and Orai. The outlying parts of the Orai municipality are said to be inadequately looked after. The Commissioner has had to draw the attention of the Etawah board to the unhealthy condition of the town, to the neglect of the board to carry out its ordinary sanitary duties, and to the disregard of the instructions given by the Sanitary Commissioner; while the Deputy Sanitary Commissioner has expressed his disappointment that in Jhansi practically no action was taken on his report, except that the board passed a number of "sound resolutions." There is a slight reduction in the expenditure on the maintenance of roads. While in many places again the condition of the roads is a subject of adverse comment, many boards experienced difficulties in arranging for the carting or railing of materials.

Education.

11. The total expenditure on education shows an increase of Rs. 44,000. There is a large increase under the head "contributions" due to several boards having handed over the administration of their schools to the district boards. There was an increase of 50 in the number of primary schools for boys managed by the boards and a decrease of 15 in the number of aided schools; while the total number of pupils in both aided and managed schools increased by 3,000. The number of girls' schools shows a decrease of 5, while there is a reduction of 100 in the number of pupils. The progress during the year cannot be said to be very satisfactory, and many of the boards have not even taken the trouble to explain the reasons for a decrease in the number of schools or scholars. During the year boards were consulted on proposals for legislation to enable boards to introduce compulsory education, and the majority of the boards expressed themselves in favour of this proposal. It is regrettable, however, to find that some boards have not been able to expend the grants given to them four years ago by the Government, both for increasing the number of scholars and for the construction of school buildings.

Vital statistics.

12. The year was a most unhealthy one, there being outbreaks of plague and cholera in many municipalities, while there was a high mortality from relapsing fever in many places. The average birth-rate for the year 1917 was 47·93, the highest recorded during the last 37 years; the death-rate, however, rose from 36·54 to 47·10, the highest mortality being recorded in Tilhar (91·35) and Pilibhit (86·73). Thirty-six municipalities returned death-rates in excess of the birth-rates. The infantile mortality again rose to the very high average of 275·72. In some municipalities the rates reported are appalling, the worst cases being Pilibhit with a death-rate of 401 per mille, Shahabad and Ujhani 391, Tilhar 373, Bisalpur 372, Budaun 371. The Lieutenant-Governor would again urge municipal boards to take more vigorous and effective action to check preventible causes of death among children. Very few details have been given in many reports regarding the vaccination returns.

Improvement trusts.

13. The Improvement Trusts in Allahabad, Cawnpore and Lucknow prepared no new schemes during the year, their transactions being mainly confined to the completion of existing schemes. The trusts are at present marking time pending the introduction of legislation for town improvements.

Financial position of boards.

14. The fact that boards generally have suffered no diminution in income and have been compelled owing to war conditions to economise in expenditure, particularly in original works, has enabled them to maintain equilibrium in most cases. The finances of some boards, however, are in a most unsatisfactory condition, as will appear from the following extracts from the Commissioner's reviews:—

Khurja.—"The financial condition of the Khurja board is deteriorating rapidly. The year opened with a cash balance of Rs. 22,984 and closed with one of Rs. 16,702, while the board could not spend more than Rs. 50 on original works. It is maintaining its recurring expenditure by depleting its balances."

Ballia.—The position of this board is still unsatisfactory. The total recurring income was Rs. 36,726 against a total recurring expenditure of Rs. 42,040. Although the board has revised the rates for the tax on circumstances and property, which will have effect from the beginning of the current year, it is doubtful whether even these revised rates will enable the board to carry on its services properly.

Benares.—"The financial position of the Benares board is very unsatisfactory. The board had during the year a total recurring income of Rs. 6,76,044 as against a total recurring expenditure of Rs. 7,41,610. In other words, it spent Rs. 65,566 in excess of its income, and although it had a closing balance of Rs. 88,469 and invested funds amounting to Rs. 1,76,900, it is Rs. 1,47,800 behindhand with its expenditure on grants and loans previously given for specific purposes. The board is not in a position to undertake any large sanitary or other works of improvement without outside help. Several important and costly sanitary projects have been carried out from Government grants and others which are now under contemplation depend entirely on the continuance of similar grants. The liabilities of the board are increasing every day and the circumstances of the board go to show that unless steps are taken to increase its resources, the board will shortly be driven into bankruptcy. It is now on the present year's figures finding over two lakhs from other sources towards the cost of its water-supply, and as pointed out last year the public will have to resign themselves to paying more for their water."

Nawabganj (Bara Banki).—The financial position of this board was adversely commented upon last year. In the year under review a great deal of the board's income was again in arrears and the board only managed to establish equilibrium by postponing the payment of bills amounting to Rs. 2,800. It has been found necessary to warn the board that disciplinary action may be required.

General.

15. The year under review is the first year during the whole of which the great majority of the boards have been working under non-official chairmen. The Lieutenant-Governor regrets to observe that on several boards the spirit of faction prevails with serious effect on the municipal administration. The friction and dissension among the members of the municipal board of Hapur resulted during the year in the resignation of the non-official chairman, and the board then passed the following resolution:—"In view of the present state of affairs of the place it was unanimously resolved that the Government be requested to kindly appoint an official chairman for the remaining period of the term." The following extracts are taken from the review of the Commissioner of the Rohilkhand division:—

"In Najibabad in several instances a double record of proceedings was received, one from the chairman and his friends who were in the minority and one from the majority of the members who were in opposition to him. In Bisalpur the members took little interest in public work and party feeling and mutual jealousy are so strong that the district magistrate could not find an impartial man to nominate in an existing vacancy. The secretary being a bone of contention between the parties had to be removed and the official chairman (the sub-divisional officer) reports that since both senior and junior vice-chairmen take no interest and all the work has to be done by himself it is not worth while retaining the municipality at all."

"The chairman and members of the municipal board of Nagina are at loggerheads and consequently the affairs of the board are in a state of chaos. The accountant was convicted of forgery during the year. Further investigations are in progress and more forgeries are apprehended. The elected chairman has been unable to manage either his board or his office."

In Bareilly there has been "a good deal of friction" between the board and its officers, and the district magistrate states that this is particularly so with regard to buildings "where it is a common thing for a canvass of votes to result in the sanctioning of a gross breach of byelaws."

Owing to "the strained relations" among the members of the Brindaban board the Commissioner found it necessary to remonstrate with them:—"It had some effect for some time, but again personal matters have been allowed to interfere with municipal work. As a consequence I have written to the board that if municipal work suffers I shall have to suspend the board."

The annual report of the municipal board of Fyzabad is disfigured by mutual recriminations between the elected chairman and the members. The action of the chairman in suspending the octroi superintendent in connection with a matter which was being investigated by the police appears to have aroused the animosity of the majority of the members, who on the numerous occasions on which this particular question was raised before the board had invariably voted in one way on all the points raised. The same majority of members struck out of the report the chairman's account of this matter and added to the draft no less than four out of the thirteen pages of the whole report, accusing the chairman of lack of impartiality.

The administration of the Khairabad municipality has fallen into such disorder—the board failing to collect its dues or to make adequate arrangement for the maintenance of its services—that the Commissioner has had to warn the board that disciplinary action may be required.

16. While such dissensions and irregularities as are mentioned in the preceding paragraph are likely to bring municipal administration into discredit, His Honour is glad to observe that they are confined to a few municipalities, and he gladly acknowledges the public spirit and the goodwill with which the great majority of the boards have devoted themselves to the discharge of their important duties. While he has had to criticise the action of some boards in particular matters and while he regrets that there is a tendency on many boards to increase expenditure without making adequate provision for a corresponding increase in revenue, he still hopes that these defects will be cured in time as members realise in greater measure their responsibility to their constituents and as the electorates become more critical of the action of their representatives.

ORDER.—Ordered that a copy of this resolution be forwarded to all Commissioners of divisions for information and communication to the chairmen of municipal boards.

Ordered also that a copy be published in the United Provinces Government Gazette for general information.

ON

IN THE

UNITED PROVINCES OF AGRA AND OUDH

FOR THE YEAR 1918-19.

No. 245/XI—59.

RESOLUTION.

MUNICIPAL DEPARTMENT.

Dated Allahabad, the 18th February, 1920.

READ—

The divisional reviews submitted by Commissioners upon the administration and finances of municipalities during the year 1918-19.

This Government's (Municipal department) resolution no. 2842, dated the 13th November, 1918, on municipal administration in the year 1917-18.

Constitution.

OBSERVATIONS.—The total number of municipalities in the province remained the same as in the previous year, viz., 83, whilst the municipal population increased slightly owing to the extension of the Ghazipur municipal boundary. There was no alteration in the number of members, but two vacancies at Gonda and Fyzabad, respectively, of nominated (ex-officio) members were not filled.

During the year the boards of Azamgarh and Ballia elected non-official chairmen for the first time. The total number of non-official chairmen in the province was thus increased to 62. The Mirzapur board however preferred to retain its official chairman. The introduction of the system of triennial elections under the Act of 1916 brought about a general election at the close of the year. It is satisfactory to note that, on the whole, the elections aroused considerable interest; in the larger municipalities many seats were keenly contested and numerous changes in the personnel of the boards occurred. Further, the non-Muslim parties at Allahabad and Bijnor, who had hitherto abstained from participation in municipal affairs, abandoned this policy and took part in the elections. In many of the smaller municipalities however the elections aroused little or no enthusiasm and existing members were for the most part returned unopposed. In five divisions, viz., Meerut, Gorakhpur, Allahabad, Benares and Rohilkhand, the elections were followed by 36 election petitions: all except three have been since rejected or withdrawn. In Azamgarh the Commissioner was forced to set aside the first election altogether. The number of election petitions in the other five divisions has not been reported. The Lieutenant-Governor notes with regret the failure of the Almora municipal board to hold its elections at the prescribed time, an omission which it would have been difficult to rectify under the Act had it not been possible for Government to extend the term of its members up to 31st March, 1920. These elections will accordingly take place in March, 1920, after which the new board will hold office for two years. It is to be regretted that many boards have again submitted their annual reports after the fixed dates. In the Allahabad division the Commissioner reports that only one board, viz., Allahabad, submitted the report by the prescribed date, whilst in Rohilkhand and Meerut divisions the reports of five and seven boards respectively were received late. The Lieutenant-Governor desires again to impress upon the boards concerned the necessity of submitting their annual reports punctually. In reviewing the report of the Agra municipal board, the Commissioner remarks: "Considering the importance of Agra as a former imperial capital and one of the largest cities in the province the report itself is a somewhat meagre document and consists of little more than a bald explanation of the increases and decreases under various heads of income and expenditure." It is hardly necessary to explain that the report should show an intelligent comprehension of the salient features of the year's administration.

Meetings.

2. The number of meetings increased from 1,721 to 1,752 for which the Allahabad, Bareilly, Khairabad and Lakhimpur boards were mainly responsible. There was also an increase from 110 to 157 in the number which proved abortive for want of quorum, whilst the number of adjourned meetings also rose from 117 to 137. Only a few boards, however, are to blame in this matter. There were 15 abortive meetings at Khairabad out of 57. At Banda and Lakhimpur more than half the total number of meetings were abortive, and more than a quarter in the case of eight other boards. At Bareilly 25 out of 45 meetings were adjourned and at Ghaziabad 18 out of 24. It is satisfactory to note that only the Almora board held fewer meetings than the prescribed number. On the whole, the average attendance of members was again satisfactory; there were only 11 boards where the average attendance of non-official members fell below 50 per cent.

Legislation.

3. During the year an important piece of municipal legislation was passed by the United Provinces Legislative Council in the United Provinces Primary Education Act (VII of 1919), which received the assent of the Governor General on 18th May, 1919. A further reference to this measure is made in paragraph 11 below. In addition there were two amending Acts, viz., I of 1918 and II of 1919, providing for certain amendments in the Municipalities Act of 1916. Under the former, section 128(XIII) was amended to enable the Local Government to sanction the replacement of octroi by terminal tax without a reference to the Government of India. The most important provision in Act II of 1919 was the amendment of section 46(2) in order to terminate at the time of a general election the period of office of a non-official chairman who is not a member of the board. In 1918-19 considerable progress was also made with the Town Improvement Bill. The committee appointed under rule 13 of the Council rules to consider the draft Bill presented their report in September, 1918 and the Bill, after certain modifications, was finally passed by the United Provinces Legislative Council during the current year.

Rules, byelaws and regulations.

4. In many municipalities good progress has been made in framing rules, regulations and byelaws: though a few, notably Bara Banki, Bulandshahr, Ghaziabad, Hapur, Mirzapur and Muzaffarnagar, have given little or no attention to this matter. Elsewhere delay is caused by unnecessary departure from the model byelaws,—a tendency specially marked in Rohilkhand. The Lieutenant-Governor trusts that all boards will have completed this task by the end of the current year, and draws attention to the importance of enacting projection and building byelaws without further delay. It would seem hardly necessary to emphasize the importance of compelling obedience to byelaws when framed: yet the following remarks of the Commissioner of the Fyzabad division shows that this obvious duty is frequently neglected:—"Most municipalities have passed numerous sets of byelaws. It is not too much to say that they have had no further effect than if they had not been passed at all. The whole procedure is a sham from beginning to end—except that the municipalities exact fees for licences. They make no attempt at all to get the conditions of the licences carried out. Some municipalities go so far in their disregard of the objects of framing byelaws as to frame them for institutions which do not exist."

5. The total municipal income (excluding loans and advances) rose from Rs. 103·92 to Rs. 118·86 lakhs. After deducting Government contributions the net increase amounts to Rs. 14·30 lakhs, which is shared by all divisions and is a record figure for the province. Nearly one half of this increase occurred under the head "Miscellaneous," which includes the large receipts derived from the sale of cheap grain and salt. There was also a marked improvement in the income from municipal property and sources other than taxation, viz., from Rs. 20·88 to Rs. 24·67 lakhs, whilst the income from taxation also showed a satisfactory increase of Rs. 3·39 lakhs. Income.

6. Income from octroi, terminal tax and toll.—During the year under report the larger boards were busily engaged in the heavy task of preparing proposals for the substitution of octroi by terminal tax and toll. The work is undoubtedly complicated and cannot be accomplished in a hurry: but there is also a tendency to delay it. Octroi is in many cases the chief source of income and boards are apprehensive of a loss resulting from the change. There is clearly no justification for this apprehension if the proposals are carefully prepared in accordance with the instructions already laid down by Government in September, 1917, and on the lines of the Cawnpore system which has been in force for the last 23 years. Moreover, as pointed out last year, it will be possible to enlarge very greatly the scope of terminal taxation and obtain from this source a very much higher revenue than was previously contemplated: though at present the Government of India have laid down that when the present changes are made the income from terminal taxation should not materially exceed that derived from octroi.

With this reservation the boards should find no difficulty in making the change. It is regrettable to note that only two boards, viz., Hathras and Bahraich, succeeded in completing the proposals for terminal taxation and toll by the end of the year under report, and octroi remained in force throughout the year in 35 municipalities. No proposals have so far been received from Allahabad, Lucknow, Gorakhpur, Etawah, Mirzapur, Jaunpur, Khurja, Gonda and Pilibhit. The Local Government trusts that special efforts will be made to expedite the submission of these proposals in order that octroi may be finally abolished throughout the province by the end of the current year. Income from octroi was adversely affected by the general restrictions imposed on railway traffic and by the partial failure of the kharif crop: and these facts explain the decreases in octroi income in the Meerut and Bundelkhand divisions. Elsewhere the rise of the prices of piece-goods and many other commodities inflated the income received from ad valorem octroi duties and more than counterbalanced the effects of traffic difficulty and crop failure. In Banda and Benares a decline in net receipts is explained by heavy refunds: in Cawnpore there was also a decline in the receipts from both the terminal tax and toll. But all over the province the total receipts from octroi rose from Rs. 35·30 to Rs. 37·43 lakhs.

7. Income from taxation other than octroi, terminal tax and terminal toll.—All heads show an increase in income except the tax on professions and trades and the pilgrim tax; the total increase is over two lakhs. The main increases were in the water rate (Rs. 1·21 lakhs), tax on houses and lands (Rs. 34,500), tolls (Rs. 34,300), tax on circumstances and property (Rs. 10,000), and conservancy (Rs. 8,000). Owing to the revised assessment at Allahabad there was a substantial rise of Rs. 13,000 in the tax on houses and lands, whilst at Benares some arrears of this tax were collected and produced Rs. 11,000 more than in the previous year. Other increases were Meerut (Rs. 7,000), Moradabad (Rs. 5,000), and Jaunpur (Rs. 4,500). In the last-named owing to heavy arrears the collections produced less than half the amount due and at the end of the year the arrears were again in excess of the annual demand. The most serious decline in income under this head was at Agra, viz., from Rs. 69,444 to Rs. 60,865. The cause is said to be the prevalence of relapsing fever, influenza and scarcity. The connection between the alleged cause and the effect is scarcely obvious.

The total revenue from the tax on animals and vehicles increased by Rs. 3,000 : but the figures vary considerably in various municipalities. There were decreases at Allahabad and Moradabad and increases at Benares, Cawnpore and Mussoorie. It was imposed for the first time at Dehra and Shahjahanpur with satisfactory results. Owing to a busier season the tolls at Mussoorie and Naini Tal rose by Rs. 12,500 and Rs. 10,000 respectively. Ghaziabad also increased the income under this head by Rs. 9,500, whilst at Firozabad the toll imposed for the first time in 1918 produced Rs. 6,289. The only substantial decrease was at Sikandrabad.

The Lieutenant-Governor appreciates the efforts made by several boards to expand their water tax revenue. Under this head there was a satisfactory increase of Rs. 1·21 lakhs over last year's total for the province. In the case of seven municipalities, viz., Lucknow, Allahabad, Cawnpore, Benares, Muttra, Naini Tal and Jhansi the combined receipts rose by Rs. 1·30 lakhs. The increase is particularly noticeable at Lucknow, where the income was more than doubled owing to the collection of arrears and the extension of the water tax area, whilst the revised assessment at Allahabad produced an additional Rs. 37,000. In the case of Benares the increase, viz., Rs. 26,000, is ascribed chiefly to the collection of arrears. At Muttra, however, the variation is due to the fact that in the previous year (1917-18) the water tax was in force for only nine months. In the case of the other two boards where the water tax is levied, viz., Mussooree and Agra, there was a substantial falling off in receipts, viz., Rs. 2,600 and Rs. 6,300, respectively. At Agra the chairman attributes this to the same causes as the decrease in the revenue from house tax, and the explanation is no more convincing in this case than in that. It may further be mentioned that the collections at Agra were less than three-fourths of the budgetted figure. Seven municipalities, viz., Naini Tal, Mussoorie, Agra, Cawnpore, Allahabad, Unao and Sandila, show a total increase of nearly Rs. 9,000 in the conservancy taxes, whilst slight reductions occurred at Dehra Dun, Moradabad and Almora. The most notable variation was at Naini Tal, where the income rose by Rs. 5,600. The tax was levied at Sandila and Unao for the first time, but the amounts realized were insignificant.

There was a marked increase in the income from the tax on circumstances and property, due chiefly to the new imposition of this tax at Bahraich and Sitapur, and also to the revision of the tax at Ballia ; this revision accounts for Rs. 4,000 of the increase. There were improved collections also at Mainpuri, Nagina, Bisalpur, Mau, Khairabad and Sandila, whilst the only substantial reductions were at Fatehpur (Rs. 2,800) and Sambhal (Rs. 2,000).

The continuation of reduced facilities for passenger traffic accounts for the further decline in the income from the pilgrim tax at Benares and Hardwar. The receipts at Fyzabad were, however, practically the same as in the previous year. Now that the war is over it is hoped that the income from the tax at these three pilgrim centres will be restored to its former level. The question of revising the tax at Fyzabad is already under the consideration of Government and proposals have been received recently for the imposition of a similar tax at the important pilgrim centres of Muttra and Brindaban.

There are many variations in the receipts from the tax on professions and trades which show a decrease of over Rs. 7,000 in the provincial total. The largest variation is at Bareilly with an increase of Rs. 6,700, whilst Balrampur, Lakhimpur and Hapur account for an additional Rs. 3,900. The most notable decreases are at Deoband (Rs. 5,000) which is unexplained, Sitapur (Rs. 2,300), Shahjahanpur

(Rs. 2,000), and Sultanpur (Rs. 3,000). In the last case considerable arrears had been collected in the previous year (1917-18).

The Lieutenant-Governor acknowledges that fair progress has been made during the year under report in expanding the income from taxation; but he wishes to emphasize that much progress remains to be made if the boards are to meet their increasing liabilities consequent on the development of municipal administration.

8. Income from sources other than taxation.—Excluding Government contributions, this head shows a very large increase of Rs. 11·13 lakhs, but practically two-thirds of this is non-recurring and is included mainly under the head "Miscellaneous." The sub-head "other items" rose substantially from Rs. 4·76 to 11·30 lakhs owing chiefly to the proceeds from the sale of salt and cheap grain. The work of opening salt dépôts was undertaken as an experiment by many boards in the province in order to check the rise in price of this article. The Commissioners' reviews do not give a complete account of these operations, but the reports submitted show that the main object of the work was achieved, viz., a general reduction in the price of salt. In the Rohilkhand division all boards except Tilhar opened shops and eight held them under direct management, making a profit of Rs. 33,535 on the transactions. At Bareilly the receipts exceeded the expenditure by Rs. 12,557, or 15 per cent. on the outlay. Other boards sold the salt through local agencies or contractors. The Commissioner in reviewing this work remarks, "only in Shahjahanpur can it be said that the system was run for the purpose for which it was devised—the benefit of the poor—elsewhere it was made a source of profit by the boards where they managed the business themselves or by their agents, where agents were employed. That a great deal more salt was imported than was actually required is clear from the fact that the annual consumption per head of the municipal population varies from two seers eight chataks in Shahjahanpur to one maund 36 seers and 3 chataks in Najibabad." All boards in the Jhansi and Gorakhpur divisions opened shops, but in the former many did not confine their sales to residents within the municipal areas. At Lucknow the board originally employed two contractors who opened one shop in each ward and received 6¼ per cent. commission on the sales. Later the number of shops in each ward was increased to three and the commission raised to 7¼ per cent. The board's accounts show a profit of Rs. 9,400 on an outlay of Rs. 1,36,000 for this work, but the desired effect was obtained, in that the market rate fell by over 50 per cent. The Agra board has not given a complete account of its dealings in cheap grain and salt which together resulted in a loss of Rs. 17,000 on the year's working. Unless the circumstances under which this loss was incurred are explained, it cannot be said whether the benefit went to the really deserving classes. At Allahabad the sale-proceeds amounted to Rs. 37,755, but the actual expenditure which apparently is included in the item "47(f) Miscellaneous"—Rs. 39,400—has not been reported. The Cawnpore board spent Rs. 94,114 in purchases of salt and realized Rs. 1,15,861 on sales, but the reason for such a large profit is not given. The board also opened a cheap grain shop which resulted in a loss of Rs. 14,000. It is not possible to give actual figures showing the total receipts and expenditure for all boards regarding their dealings in salt and cheap grain, but column "47(f) Miscellaneous" of statement III includes the expenditure on this account. Whereas the total receipts on "other items" increased by Rs. 6·54 lakhs, the expenditure, in column 47(f), shows an increase of Rs. 4·13 lakhs only. It is therefore evident that the general result was unnecessarily large profit to most of the boards which undertook this work. There can be no doubt that the organization met a public need and did much to relieve a dangerous situation. Nevertheless, in view of the figures given, an uneasy feeling is created that the benefit was not so great, nor so well directed, as it might have been. Under instructions from the Government of India these operations are being discontinued during the current year.

The realizations under Special Acts show an increase of Rs. 27,400, chiefly due to the enhanced income from pounds. Other important increases were the receipts from the sale of water—Rs. 1,19,000, interest on investments—Rs. 91,000, rents of lands, etc., Rs. 50,000, revenue from market and slaughter-houses—Rs. 27,800, sale proceeds of lands—Rs. 27,700, fines, Rs. 11,400 and Miscellaneous—Rs. 42,000. The only substantial decrease is in the receipts from fairs.

The large increase under the head "Sale of water" is satisfactory: there is only one board—Mirzapur—which shows a decrease of Rs. 6,000. The remaining boards have thus added to their revenue by 1¾ lakhs, of which Lucknow has contributed over one-third. Agra accounts for Rs. 32,400, due mainly to the enhancement of the rate for water, but the increase at Meerut—Rs. 18,500—was derived entirely from the cantonment area. Cawnpore has further advanced its income by Rs. 12,900. It may be noted, however, that there was a corresponding rise in expenditure: and it is a matter for regret that only in the case of Cawnpore are the total receipts for water in excess of the expenditure including payments on account of loans. All other boards still show a serious deficit as given in the following table:—

Municipality.	Charges.	Receipts.	Deficit.
	Rs.	Rs.	Rs.
Agra	2,33,984	1,75,025	58,959
Allahabad	2,75,420	1,79,872	95,548
Benares	2,46,272	1,50,332	95,940
Jhansi	15,840	9,158	6,682
Lucknow	2,91,904	2,21,048	70,856
Meerut...	79,175	72,222	6,953
Mirzapur	23,012	8,192	14,820
Mussoorie	62,212	47,287	14,925
Muttra	38,071	24,448	13,623
Naini Tal	75,562	47,517	28,045

In last year's review the attention of all boards was drawn to the necessity of making the receipts and expenditure balance, yet in the case of five boards, viz., Mirzapur, Jhansi, Muttra, Mussoorie and Naini Tal, the deficit in 1918-19 is actually in excess of that of the previous year. Sir Harcourt Butler would again request these boards to take early steps to remedy this unsatisfactory state of affairs.

The Lieutenant-Governor regrets to observe that, with the exception of the Meerut, Rohilkhand, Jhansi and Kumaun divisions, the Commissioners have given but little information in their reviews regarding the progress made by each board in overhauling the nazul registers in order to realise an adequate income from Government and municipal properties. The importance of the subject and the imperative need for closer attention to it cannot be better illustrated than by quoting some remarks of the officer lent by Government to the Bareilly board for this purpose. The officer reports that "many valuable properties have been disposed of, and many have been allowed to be misappropriated and many yield incomes, but these do not come to the nazul accounts." There are many variations under the head "Rents of lands, etc.," but only in a few cases are increases in income reported to be due to the more vigorous action taken by boards to realise adequate rents. As noted above, the net revenue from this source was raised by half a lakh. Four boards by themselves account for this amount and more (namely, Allahabad Rs. 32,000, Agra Rs. 7,500, Cawnpore Rs. 7,200, Bareilly Rs. 3,600). The most serious reduction is at Kalpi, viz., Rs. 3,200, or over one-third of last year's income, and is attributed by the Commissioner to the scarcity—an explanation which does not seem adequate. Nor is any reason given for the falling off in income at Sitapur (Rs. 2,600), Tilhar (Rs. 1,700), and Moradabad (Rs. 2,700).

The marked increase in the receipts from markets and slaughter-houses is shared by all divisions except Lucknow: the only important decrease, Rs. 4,500, occurred in the case of the Lucknow board for which no explanation has been given. The total conservancy receipts rose slightly but those for Shahjahanpur and Moradabad considerably, owing to these boards obtaining much better prices for city-sweepings. There is no doubt that a similar expansion of revenue under this head could be effected by many other boards. The position at Farrukhabad continues to be unsatisfactory and Government hopes that the board will make serious efforts to realise the large recoverable balance which amounts to Rs. 12,800. Owing to the transfer of the hydro-electric scheme from Dehra to Mussooree the " Miscellaneous " incomes of these two boards show wide differences from the figures of the previous year since the proceeds from the sale of electric current are credited under this head. On this account the former decreased by Rs. 25,000, whilst the latter rose by Rs. 53,500, resulting in a net increase of Rs. 28,500. All divisions except Fyzabad show an increased income under this head, whilst in Jhansi the board collected over Rs. 5,000 as " projection fees." Although the total revenue from fines was raised by Rs. 11,400, this was due almost entirely to the exertions of one board, viz. Cawnpore, which increased its income by Rs. 10,200. Four divisions, viz. Benares, Gorakhpur, Agra, and Jhansi, show a decrease, whilst in the first-named the decline occurred in the case of all boards in the division, the most serious reduction being at Mirzapur.

In the annual report on the administration of criminal justice for 1918 the Honourable High Court of Judicature, Allahabad, has drawn attention to the decline in the number of offences reported under the Municipal Act. The following table gives the statistics since 1908 of the number of offences reported and the number of cases brought to trial each year :—

Year.	Number of offences reported.	Number of cases brought to trial.
1918	17,241	15,240
1917	17,661	15,956
1916	17,290	15,815
1915	17,340	16,013
1914	17,466	16,278
1913	14,058	13,154
1912	13,031	12,334
1911	12,004	11,402
1910	10,662	9,834
1909	9,871	9,306
1908	9,558	8,870

It is noticeable that, prior to 1914, there was a steady rise in the number of municipal cases but since that year there has been a decline which is undoubtedly due to the war and the consequent depletion of municipal staffs maintained throughout the province. There is however a rise in the year 1917 attributable mainly to the passing of the new Municipal Act in the previous year under which the powers of all boards were considerably enhanced. Now that the war is over an improvement in the number of prosecutions may reasonably be expected and it is hoped that the boards will give this matter their special attention by rigidly enforcing all municipal rules and byelaws.

9. Collection of municipal dues.—The Commissioner, Fyzabad division, has drawn attention to a few cases of neglect by boards in collecting municipal dues. At Tanda this slackness is described as "scandalous," whilst at Sultanpur large arrears have been allowed to accumulate apparently owing to the apathy of the collecting staff. It is reported that in this municipality 37·1 per cent. of the demand on account of house tax remained uncollected at the end of the year. At Bara Banki over four-fifths of the arrears (Rs. 3,670) of the tax on circumstances and property were due from officials. The Lieutenant-Governor regrets to observe that the position at Fatehpur has not improved. The collections in this municipality on account of the tax on circumstances and property decreased by Rs. 2,800 and were the worst on record since the tax was first imposed in 1913. It is reported that the "passive resistance" of certain members of the board continues and also that many other well-to-do persons have adopted this attitude. It is obvious that the whole system of municipal administration is liable to break down unless the board enforces the collection of the taxes which it has imposed and it is plainly the duty of the members of the board to set an example by paying the tax as soon as it becomes due. In October, 1918, the board submitted to Government a memorial from certain residents of the municipality asking for the abolition of this tax and the re-introduction of octroi. The chairman stated that the form of the present tax was the cause of the decreased income, but there appears to be no reason for this allegation. The memorial was, therefore, rejected and the chairman informed that the board should show some energy in collecting its demands. The Commissioner, Agra division, in reviewing the Agra board's report remarks: "I do not think that any satisfactory explanation has been given of the short collections of the house tax and the water tax. The decline in the licence fees from hackney carriages is not explained at all, though in view of the fact that the board has recently taken the licensing into its own hands some explanation was clearly desirable. The weak point in the administration of this municipality appears to be that the taxes which fall principally on the classes best able to bear taxation, are allowed to fall into arrears. The people who pay house tax and water tax are for the most part well-to-do persons and it is entirely scandalous that they should be allowed to evade or delay payment of their just dues. This is a matter which calls for the unremitting attention of the board."

Expenditure.

10. The total expenditure for the year under review rose to 104·50 lakhs—an increase of 9·16 lakhs over the preceding year's figure. The variations under the following non-recurring heads are of an exceptional nature, viz.—

(1) Capital outlay on water-works (—4·69 lakhs) due chiefly to the continued difficulty in obtaining materials owing to the war.

(2) Miscellaneous (+4·13 lakhs) for which the opening of salt dépôts is mainly responsible.

(3) Cost of work done for private individuals (+Rs. 37,000) which shows a corresponding increase on the receipt side. Omitting therefore the above items the ordinary recurring expenditure shows a net increase of 9·35 lakhs which is shared by all important heads. The most notable increases are under conservancy (1·94 lakhs), roads (1·22 lakhs), other sanitary requirements (1·11 lakhs) water-works establishment (Rs. 65,000) refunds (Rs. 54,000), and lighting (Rs. 49,000).

The large rise in the conservancy charges is shared by all divisions and is attributable generally to the high price of fodder and other materials, and also to the grant of scarcity allowances to the staff. Practically all municipalities show an increase, the only board that shows a substantial decrease is Fatehgarh. Considerable improvement is reported in the sanitary administration at Etawah, where the contract system of removing rubbish has been abolished and the removal by carts adopted. Regarding Allahabad the Commissioner reports that the sanitary condition of the town has not improved, but the question is being carefully considered. The importance of deciding this question without further delay cannot be too strongly urged upon the board. At Jhansi it is regrettable to note that the arrangements for the removal of sullage from cess-pools were inadequate and it is hoped that this matter will receive the early attention of the board. In the Benares division the road-watering arrangements in all municipalities are reported to be unsatisfactory.

Although the expenditure on roads on the whole showed a very substantial increase there are many wide variations and the adverse comments made by Commissioners show that in a few cases this subject is not receiving the attention that it deserves. At Agra the board spent over half a lakh more than in the preceding year but the Commissioner reports at the end of the year that some of the repaired roads already showed signs of deterioration and that the board was not obtaining full value for the money expended. In the Rohilkhand division the Commissioner states that the increased expenditure does not indicate in any way the general improvement in the state of the roads owing to the high prices of materials of all sorts and more especially of kankar. The Commissioner, Fyzabad, remarks:—"The amount actually spent on roads in the division represents two-thirds of the expenditure required to keep the roads in proper repair. This economy in this direction has been practised for many years and now the result is obvious." The most serious decline in expenditure occurred at Benares, where the board spent only Rs. 31,482 as compared with Rs. 54,485 during the preceding year. The chairman explains this by the difficulty in obtaining sufficient labour and also wagons for transporting the road metal. It may, however, be noted that the large majority of boards in the province managed to overcome this difficulty and the Lieutenant-Governor trusts that the board will make serious efforts to improve the condition of the roads which have been in a bad state for a number of years. The board has in contemplation the opening of a quarry jointly with the Public Works department and the Military Works department.

The large rise in the expenditure under the head "Other sanitary requirements" is due chiefly to the increased charges at Cawnpore, where 1·24 lakhs in all were spent. The general increase under the head "Lighting" is attributable to the high prices of kerosine oil, glass chimneys, and lighting accessories and also to the grant of compensation allowance to the staff. At Allahabad the decrease is explained by the fact that a bill for Rs. 11,000 for electric lighting was left unpaid at the close of the year for want of funds. The progress made in this municipality in the electric lighting of the main thoroughfares is reported to be satisfactory but more attention is required to the lighting of the other roads by oil-lamps. At Cawnpore the installation of electric light according to the scheme has been completed.

Education.

11. A reference has been made in paragraph 3 above to the United Provinces Primary Education Act which was passed by the Legislative Council in March, 1919. The Act, which is supplementary to the United Provinces Municipalities Act, 1916, provides for the introduction of compulsory and free primary education in the whole or any part of a municipal area on the application of the board to Government. The municipal board has further been empowered to levy an "education cess," the proceeds of which shall be devoted solely to defray the expenditure on primary education. The Lieutenant-Governor hopes that full advantage will be taken of these new powers by the various municipal boards in order to further the cause of education throughout the provinces. As already remarked in the resolution on the report of the Director of Public Instruction for the year 1918-19, His Honour will gladly assist financially any attempt to introduce the new principle in any suitable area, where the people want it. For obvious financial reasons the Government cannot at present undertake a general subvention of the principle of compulsory education.

During the year the expenditure on education decreased slightly, chiefly as the result of reduced expenditure on the erection, and repairs of school buildings. At Cawnpore and Allahabad the Government grants for this purpose had not been fully utilized at the end of the year, whilst in many other cases the decrease is explained by the fact that in the previous year the balance of the Government grants had all been expended. As regards secondary education although the number of schools managed or aided by municipal boards increased, the number of scholars declined by 600 and the municipal expenditure decreased by Rs. 30,000. The number of boys' primary schools managed by the boards increased by 41, whilst the number of aided schools for boys rose by 10. The number of scholars in these schools increased by 4,600. The number of girls' schools rose by 19 and the number of scholars by 900. On the whole, the year shows a marked improvement and the Lieutenant-Governor trusts that this improvement will be maintained. It is, however, necessary to point out that the introduction and success of the scheme for compulsory primary education will depend largely on the boards' ability to bear their share of the expenditure involved.

Vital statistics.

12. The municipal birth rate sank from 47·92 per mille in the former year to 41·75. The former was a record figure: the latter has only been exceeded eight times in 38 years and is not abnormal. But the death rate rose from 47·13 per mille to 80·94. There has never been an unhealthier year in the recorded history of the province. The great epidemic of influenza in the autumn and epidemics of cholera, plague, and relapsing fever have contributed to producing this unprecedented figure. Thirty-eight municipalities returned even higher death rates than these: Firozabad takes mournful pride of place with 146·49, whilst Agra, Atrauli, Koil, Khurja, Hathras, Muttra, Soron, Chandpur, Chandausi, Etawah, Jalesar, and Sandila all have figures of over 100.

The infantile mortality reached the appalling figure of 367·52 per mille: Budaun lost 735·15 infants per thousand births; Cawnpore, Etawah, and Jalesar all lost more than 500. The general unhealthiness of the year no doubt accounts for these figures: but they serve to bring home the imperative necessity of taking vigorous action to check preventible causes of death amongst children.

Improvement Trusts.

13. During the year the committees at Cawnpore, Allahabad, and Lucknow continued their operations, and in the case of Cawnpore and Lucknow had the benefit of the advice of the town-planning expert, Mr. H. V. Lanchester. Since the close of the year the United Provinces Town Improvement Act has passed into law.

Financial position of boards.

14. The finances of a majority of boards are in a sufficiently satisfactory condition. But some are not, and of these the board in the worst position is undoubtedly Benares, of which the Commissioner, writing to the chairman, says: "The figures given in paragraph 5 of your report do not indicate the exact financial position of the board, which is critical. Omitting grants and loans the board received during the year Rs. 7,74,000. Similarly, omitting the expenditure of Rs. 11,000 spent from the grant for spare parts of water-works machinery, the board expended Rs. 7,94,000, or Rs. 20,000 more than its income. This deficit would have been even larger if the board had maintained the services in its charge at a proper standard. I need not enlarge further on the instability of the board's ordinary finance. That has been sufficiently dealt with in correspondence about the current year's budget, which shows a deficiency of Rs. 57,000 and about the normal budget estimated on present requirements. While the difficulties of the board have been increased by the general disturbance caused by the war, they cannot be described as merely temporary. There has been a deficiency for some years, which has been masked by using grants for purposes other than those for which they were intended, and by postponing necessary expenditure. The board has lingered unduly in recognising that the first duty of a public body is to maintain its finances in a sound position."

It is unfortunate that a board which in most other directions has carried out its duties as efficiently as any board in the province, should largely by its own fault find itself in these straits: and the Lieutenant-Governor trusts that the Benares board will lose no time in putting matters right.

Of Muttra, the Commissioner writes that its financial position is unsound. "Eliminating the Government grants from both sides, the total income amounted to Rs. 1,63,385 and the expenditure to Rs. 1,66,749. This year closed with an actual balance of Rs. 21,023, which is less by Rs. 2,277 than the prescribed working and reserve balances."

General.

15. In other matters than finance, however, the administration in certain municipalities leaves much to be desired. Of Brindaban the Commissioner writes that "unrest and dissension were the marked features of the administration of the Brindaban municipal board," whilst the chairman himself is even more condemnatory. At Bareilly, it appears that the board is addicted to "multiplying offices for not very convincing reasons."

Muttra's financial methods are also strongly condemned. The chairman, it is said, regards a number of improvements as necessary: but his only proposal for financing them is to move Government for grants. Many possible sources of revenue are untaxed: the board's method of meeting fresh expenditure is "either to draw upon their balances or to appeal to Government." Of the boards in the Fyzabad division, it is stated that "they exhibit a considerable absence of any adequate appreciation of their responsibilities. In particular they are extremely unwilling to impose any fresh taxation. In order to avoid this they are driven to neglect some of their essential duties." As an instance of their methods it is recorded that the Commissioner found a sadhu camping out in the crowded chauk of a town (Tanda) with a little wood pile and a tent: "he had been allowed to obstruct traffic for eight months." Other instances might be given, but enough has been said to show that the condition of affairs in too large a number of municipalities leaves much to be desired. Such irregularities cannot fail to bring municipal administration into discredit, and His Honour desires to impress that fact on all boards whom it may concern.

16. Nevertheless, such municipalities form a minority. The great majority of boards, though they may have rendered themselves liable to criticism in particular matters, have none the less carried out their duties with energy and good-will, and His Honour is glad to express his appreciation of their public spirit and his approval of their endeavours. Finally, he would once again impress on all boards the necessity for increasing revenue if they wish to increase their expenditure. Judging from this year's reports and reviews, a tendency to ignore this fact, a feeling of reluctance to impose fresh taxation, however great the need for it, is the most common fault in the municipal administration of the province.

ORDER.—Ordered that a copy of this resolution be forwarded to all Commissioners of divisions, for information and communication to the chairmen of municipal boards.

Ordered also that a copy be published in the United Provinces Government Gazette for general information.

By order,

E. A. H. BLUNT,

Secretary.

REPORT

ON

IN THE

UNITED PROVINCES OF AGRA AND OUDH

FOR THE YEAR 1919-20.

No. 1895/XI—59.

RESOLUTION.

MUNICIPAL DEPARTMENT.

Dated Allahabad, the 23rd November, 1920.

READ—

The divisional reviews submitted by Commissioners upon the administration and finances of municipalities during the year 1919-20.

READ ALSO—

This Government's (Municipal department) resolution no. 245/XI—59, dated the 18th February, 1920, on municipal administration in the year 1918-19.

Constitution.

OBSERVATIONS.—The number of municipalities in the province increased during the year under report from 83 to 84, the Kanauj Notified Area in the Farrukhabad district being converted into a municipality from the 1st September, 1919. The municipal population increased in consequence from 2,966,668 to 2,984,773. There was no alteration in the constitution of any of the boards except Lucknow and Naini Tal; the number of members was raised from 30 to 36 in the former and from 10 to 11 in the latter case. In Deoband and Bijnor the non-Muslims, who had hitherto abstained from election, came forward and the full complement of members on those boards was made up. In Atrauli also the Muslim seat which had remained vacant the previous year was filled; while at Lucknow the increase in the number of members was the result of a compromise between the non-Muslims and Muslim parties which satisfied the former. Altogether the number of members increased from 1,015 to 1,055. The boards of Dehra, Deoband, Hapur, Atrauli, Chandpur, Tilhar, Kunch and Bela (Partabgarh) elected non-official chairmen for the first time, thus raising the number of non-official chairmen in the province to 70 out of a total number of 84. The term of membership of the Almora board expired on the 31st March, 1920, and a fresh board then came in. The elections for two of the wards of this municipality aroused a certain amount of feeling.

2. In spite of the warning given in last year's resolution some of the boards continue to submit their reports late, though, on the whole, there was a decided improvement. Agra must again be mentioned as a conspicuous offender both in this respect and also as regards the unsatisfactory and meagre nature of its report.

Meetings.

3. The total number of meetings increased from 1,752 to 1,842, the Bareilly, Allahabad, Gorakhpur and Rae Bareli boards being mainly responsible for this increase; there was a considerable decrease in the number of meetings held by the Khairabad, Soron, Nagina, Ghazipur and Fyzabad boards. The number of meetings which proved abortive for want of a quorum and the number of meetings which were adjourned decreased appreciably from 157 to 112 in the former and from 137 to 115 in the latter case. The average attendance of members at meetings was satisfactory and there were only five boards where the average attendance of non-official members fell below 50 per cent. On the other hand it must be noted that in some cases boards appear to have held an excessive number of meetings. The Commissioner of Rohilkhand considers that the Bareilly board held an unnecessarily large number and frittered away a considerable amount of time in matters of little or no importance. The attendance of members both of this and also of the Moradabad and Shahjahanpur boards was far from satisfactory, and the Commissioner remarks that some of the members of these boards seem to have no idea of the responsibilities they took upon themselves when they stood for election. More satisfactory in this respect is the position at Fyzabad, Meerut, Allahabad, Lucknow, Saharanpur, Benares, Jhansi, Cawnpore and Fatehgarh.

Legislation.

4. The Town Improvement Bill, which was mentioned in the last resolution as having been finally passed by the United Provinces Legislative Council, received the assent of the Governor General on the 5th November, 1919. Immediately on its enactment the whole Act was extended to the municipalities of Cawnpore and Lucknow and Improvement Trusts were formed under the Act for these towns. Its extension to Allahabad has now been sanctioned and an Improvement Trust for this municipality is being appointed.

5. No legislation is at present contemplated, but it is not unlikely that amendment of the Municipalities Act will be found necessary before very long. Several recent cases have shown that in some respects the Act is not elastic enough, that the procedure which it prescribes is cumbrous, and that the Local Government is not sufficiently empowered to remove or relax the restrictions which it imposes.

Rules, byelaws and regulations.

6. The remarks on this subject made in last year's resolution might well be repeated this year. While in many municipalities good progress has been made, others, among which Shahjahanpur, Mirzapur, Jhansi, Ballia and Banda must be specially mentioned, are still behindhand in this respect. Bareilly continues to display a dislike for the models framed by Government and a preference for its own forms. The enforcement of byelaws still leaves much to be desired; in Shahjahanpur some of the byelaws have never been brought into force at all. The Commissioner of the Meerut division thinks that little attempt is made to enforce those relating to dairies and dogs. It must, however, be admitted that boards are not always well backed up by the judicial authorities when they do bring offenders to book. Breaches of byelaws are often lightly punished by Honorary Magistrates with insignificant fines. As an instance may be cited a case at Bareilly where some butchers were convicted of selling meat in various parts of the city in flagrant violation of the municipal byelaws and fined eight annas each by the Bench of Honorary Magistrates.

Income.

7. The total municipal income (excluding loans and advances) fell from Rs. 119·00 lakhs to Rs. 114·66 lakhs. This decrease was entirely accounted for by a reduction in Government contributions of more than four lakhs—from Rs. 11·96 to Rs. 7·59 lakhs. The municipal income was, therefore, really much the same as last year. With the exception of an increase in income from terminal taxation, due to fresh accessions to the number of municipalities which have adopted the latter system, and also excepting a decrease under the head of "Miscellaneous", which is to be attributed to the stopping of the sale of cheap grain and salt, variations in income from different sources as compared with last year's returns were insignificant.

8. Income from octroi, terminal tax and toll.—The task of preparing proposals for the substitution of octroi by terminal tax and toll continued throughout the year and was concluded by seven more boards, namely, Agra, Hardwar, Budaun, Saharanpur, Ghazipur, Chandausi and Moradabad. Octroi is still being collected in 25 municipalities. Out of these it has been decided to allow the retention of this system by Lucknow and Gonda on account of the difficulty experienced in framing a suitable schedule which would bring in the required income and the apparent unsuitability of terminal taxation to those places. Similar difficulties have been experienced at Benares and Jaunpur, but no final decision in these cases has yet been made. The proposals of the Allahabad, Etawah, Khurja, Pilibhit, Dehra, Meerut, Hapur, Koil, Muttra, Brindaban, Kasganj, Bareilly, Banda, Jhansi and Rae Bareli boards were still under consideration at the close of the year; proposals from Shahjahanpur, Farrukhabad, Tilhar and Fyzabad were approved by Government, but the change of system did not come into effect during the year under review, while proposals from Gorakhpur, Mirzapur and Jaunpur are still awaited.

9. While the general principles laid down for the guidance of boards in the preparation of proposals for the adoption of terminal taxation still hold good, it is recognized that local variations as regards details must often be allowed, and that what will suit a large industrial place like Cawnpore may be quite unsuited for smaller places where industry is either stagnant or in its infancy. In fact it is rapidly becoming clear that terminal taxation is not suited to every type of municipality, and as already noted, the attempt to replace octroi by it everywhere has been abandoned. Relaxation of the conditions usually enforced must be allowed where strict adherence to them would lead to evasion, and unfortunately there is reason to believe that evasion is not uncommon, particularly where there is a wide difference between the rates of tax and toll. Where a high terminal rate is imposed on certain commodities there is a natural temptation to importers to unload their goods at stations adjoining municipal limits and bring them into the municipality in carts. Complaints to this effect have been received both from some of the railway companies whose traffic is affected adversely thereby, and also from the municipalities concerned. To meet this difficulty the Lieutenant-Governor has decided to permit boards which anticipate such evasion to add a third class of toll at prohibitive rates on those articles on which a high terminal rate is imposed, but it is too early yet to say whether this solution of the question will be completely successful.

10. As has already been noted receipts from octroi fell from Rs. 37·43 to Rs 34·17 lakhs and receipts from terminal taxation rose from Rs. 5·97 to Rs. 10·61 lakhs, this being mainly due to the increase in the number of municipalities which changed from one system to the other during the year. Decreases in income from octroi in individual municipalities, such as Bareilly, Fatehgarh, Agra and Allahabad, are generally attributed to crop failure and difficulties of transport. Allahabad adds, as a further contributory cause, the prohibition of exports from certain States. Increases in receipts from octroi occurred at Benares, Jhansi, Banda and generally in the Agra division, except at Agra itself. The increase at Benares is not explained; at Banda it is said to be due to the fact that claims to refunds amounting to over Rs. 12,000 were not met during the year owing to want of funds—a significant indication of the state of the municipal finances; while at Jhansi it is attributed to the larger number of cattle brought to the municipal slaughter-houses.

11. Income from taxation other than octroi, terminal tax and terminal toll.—Income increased under six and decreased under five heads. The main increases were in the tax on houses (Rs. 29,000), water tax (Rs. 50,000), tolls on roads and ferries (Rs. 10,000), tax on circumstances and property (Rs. 30,000) and the pilgrim tax (Rs. 37,000). The only important decrease was one of Rs. 20,000 in the tax on trades and professions. On the whole, leaving octroi and terminal taxation out of consideration, the municipal income from other taxes rose by Rs. 1·29 lakhs.

12. The chief increases under the house tax occurred at Agra, Allahabad, Benares and Hardoi; under the water tax at Agra, Allahabad and Benares, there being a decrease of over Rs. 12,000 under this head at Lucknow, while the income at Naini Tal also declined; under the tax on circumstances and property increases occurred at Najibabad, Sitapur, Nawabganj (Bara Banki), Bisalpur, Fatehpur and Tanda, and under the pilgrim tax at Hardwar and Benares. For the decrease under the tax on trades and professions Hathras, Bareilly and Lakhimpur were chiefly responsible. The increase under the head of water tax is satisfactory so far as it goes, but it will have to go a good deal further before the income covers expenditure. In not a single case does it do so at present. An increase in the rates in all the larger municipalities is urgently called for and is at present, it is understood, being considered by some of the boards. So far Allahabad is the only board which has definitely decided in favour of enhancement.

13. Mention may be made here of the precarious nature of the water supply in several municipalities. Little was done during the year to improve matters, and boards continue to live from hand to mouth in this respect. The Board of Public Health have recently informed Government that they view the situation with grave apprehension and their views have been published for general information. The Lieutenant-Governor considers the situation to be serious, and trusts that all the boards concerned will give it their immediate and earnest attention. In Allahabad, Lucknow, Benares, Cawnpore and Naini Tal the position is rapidly becoming critical, for the supply has in each case outgrown the pumping and filtering capacity of the plant. The engines and pumps have been during the last few years taxed to their utmost limit, and many of the sets will before long be of no further use. At the same time the demand for water has been rapidly increasing.

14. If this position admitted of immediate remedy matters would not be so grave: but under present conditions the plant required for the renewal of the machinery cannot be obtained and imported under a period which is estimated by the Sanitary Engineer at eighteen months, and this period may be indefinitely prolonged in the event of labour disputes. The municipalities mentioned therefore will have to make their present plant last for at least another two hot weathers, and will have to place their orders at once if they wish to have a new plant working in the third hot weather.

15. The pilgrim tax is susceptible of considerable extension and several towns which attract a large number of pilgrims have recently approached Government with a view to its adoption. In some cases municipalities have no other obvious source from which they can expand their revenues; they are faced with schemes of sanitary reform involving a large expenditure, and it is natural that they should wish to make the pilgrim pay for the provision of amenities from which he will chiefly benefit. The Lieutenant-Governor considers that in such circumstances the imposition of a pilgrim tax is entirely justified; the burden on the pilgrims, being limited under the instructions laid down by the Government of India to one anna to and from the town concerned, is extremely light, and Sir Harcourt Butler does not believe that it would be felt by the pilgrims or that it would have any effect on the traffic of the railway companies through which it has to be collected. Unfortunately this view is not shared by some of the railway companies concerned, and at present in consequence of their opposition little progress is being made with the proposals for extension to other towns. His Honour is aware that the question is not entirely free from difficulty, that evasion, though unlikely where so small an amount is concerned, is theoretically possible; but he does not believe that there is any real cause for the apprehensions expressed by the railway companies, and he earnestly trusts both in the interest of the towns concerned and of the pilgrims that the question will be satisfactorily settled.

16. Signs are still not wanting that municipalities which depend on direct taxation for the greater part of their income are by no means reconciled to the system and would gladly welcome a reversion to any form of indirect taxation. Writing of the tax on circumstances and property, the Commissioner of the Agra division remarks that the total income remains much the same, but the tax is hardly anywhere accepted by the boards as a satisfactory main source of income ; "in a number of towns the proceeds are materially less than they were five years ago, and several reports enlarge on the difficulties of assessment and collection. In Mainpuri in particular local dissatisfaction with the tax is great and several reports speak of its possible replacement by other forms of taxation. In Firozabad the assessment has been reduced and tolls have been imposed with successful results. It is unlikely that any of these towns could be allowed to introduce the full terminal tax and toll system, nor is it likely that it would prove successful, as much of the railway trade, owing to its petty character, could be diverted without difficulty to railway stations near by, but one feels constrained to remark that a system involving fluctuating assessments liable to revision each year on the private circumstances of the majority of the electors is very obviously a most difficult one for municipalities newly emancipated from official control to manage. A partial reversion to indirect taxation in the shape of tolls with a more stable system of direct taxation, such as house tax with a high exemption limit would seem a possible alternative. But there can be no doubt that all these small municipalities would welcome a reversion to octroi if they were permitted to do so."

17. Direct taxation is undoubtedly unpopular. In theory it may be preferable to indirect taxation : but the merits of a tax cannot be judged on theoretical considerations alone. Indeed if other things are equal—if two taxes are equally productive, equally economical, equally justly distributed—then it is possible to assert that the better tax is that to which the people most concerned are accustomed and which they prefer : in short that the better tax is that which is most convenient to the community. Sir Harcourt Butler would deprecate a general reversion to octroi : he would not generally support proposals for the imposition of terminal taxation in place of a house tax, a tax on trades and professions or other direct taxation. Nevertheless he would see no important objection to a partial reversion to indirect taxation in the shape of tolls as suggested by the Commissioner of Agra. And as regards direct taxation, he considers that much can be done to remedy the present situation by giving more attention to simplicity, in the matters especially of schedules and rates. Their elaborate nature at present makes evasion easy and collection difficult. In short the Lieutenant-Governor considers that the improvement of local taxation will best be attained by a careful combination of direct and indirect taxation with the simplification of the former, and he advises municipal boards to consider the question of reforming their systems along these lines.

18. Income from sources other than taxation.—The total income under this head was Rs. 45·27 lakhs as against Rs. 52·29 lakhs in the previous year. The decrease is more than covered by a reduction in Government contributions of Rs. 4·38 lakhs and a fall of Rs. 5·20 lakhs under the head 'Miscellaneous.' The figure under the latter head, which was swollen last year by receipts from the sale of salt and cheap grain, has now fallen to normal proportions. The real income from municipal property increased by Rs. 2·46 lakhs and thus the total is more satisfactory than at first sight it would appear to be.

19. Realizations under special Acts remained much the same as last year. Apart from the items mentioned above, variations occurred chiefly under sale proceeds of lands + Rs. 52,000, conservancy receipts + Rs. 31,000, revenue from markets and slaughter-houses + Rs. 78,000, sale of water + Rs. 20,000, interest on investments + Rs. 41,000, rents of lands — Rs. 18,000, recoveries — Rs. 54,600. These variations are not of sufficient importance to call for any particular comment.

Reference was made in last year's resolution to the decline in the number of cases reported under the Municipal Act and this was attributed to the war and the consequent depletion of municipal staffs. It is satisfactory to note that there was a large increase during the past year both in the number of offences reported and in the number of cases brought to trial. The former rose from 17,241 to 20,943 and the latter from 15,240 to 18,078 and there can be little doubt that the High Court is correct in attributing this improvement to superior organization and supervision.

20. Much still remains to be done in the way of overhauling the nazul registers and realizing adequate income from nazul property. In some of the larger municipalities the services of Government officials, either deputy collectors or tahsildars, are being lent for this purpose. In most cases a proper survey is the first necessity. At present boards have, it is to be feared, often to allow claims of doubtful validity simply because of the absence of a proper survey and their supineness in the past. The Commissioner of Benares considers that district officers have not interested themselves sufficiently in the matter and have left too much to the boards. He adds that in Jaunpur registers have not been overhauled since 1910. The Commissioner of the Jhansi division singles out Banda as having made little progress in this direction; he also questions whether all the income derived from nazul finds its way into the nazul accounts. Cawnpore, on the other hand, reports that action was taken to obtain an adequate rent from nazul land by bringing it to the level of the market rate.

21. Collection of municipal dues.—Little is said on this subject by several Commissioners, but on the whole there would appear to be some improvement. A substantial improvement is reported from the Fyzabad division, except in the case of Sultanpur, where poor collections have been a recurring feature for some years past. It was most marked in the Tanda and Bara Banki municipalities, which had previously been adversely commented on for neglect of this duty. The Commissioner, however, points out that it is not equally clear whether in cases where the tax on circumstances and property or trades and professions forms the main basis of income, a careful scrutiny is maintained of the assessment lists with a view to seeing that there is no under-assessment and that persons liable to assessment are not escaping taxation.

Expenditure.

22. The expenditure for the year again rose by Rs. 2·62 lakhs from Rs. 104·50 to Rs. 107·12 lakhs, as compared with a rise in the previous year of Rs. 9·16 lakhs. Increases occurred under almost all heads, the only exceptions of any importance being a decrease under plague charges of Rs. 19,000, under roads of Rs. 21,000, under rents of Rs. 10,000, and fairly large decreases under contributions towards educational and general purposes and also under the head of interest paid on loans. The increase was largest under the heads of conservancy and public instruction, where it was Rs. 1,75,000 and Rs. 1,05,000 respectively; general administration accounts for Rs. 45,000, water supply establishment for Rs. 56,500, printing charges for Rs. 44,000, lighting for Rs. 43,000, and public safety-fire for Rs. 32,000.

23. In general the increase is to be attributed to revision of the pay of staff and increase in the cost of material. Public instruction is dealt with separately. As regards conservancy very few improvements were carried out anywhere and on this subject not a single Commissioner is enthusiastic. The remarks made by the Sanitary Commissioner with reference to the municipalities of the Jhansi division can probably be taken as a fair sample of conditions generally. Lalitpur, Mau, Orai and Kalpi he finds "fairly satisfactory." Banda is "fairly clean on the surface" but otherwise unsatisfactory, the supervision being inadequate; Jhansi is described as "wanting in even the most necessary and elementary principles of hygiene" while Kunch is a "most insanitary and disgusting place." And the boards pay little attention, it is to be feared, to the inspection notes of the officers of the Sanitary department. They are disposed of, in the words of the Commissioner of Rohilkhand "in a routine and desultory fashion, and promises are made which are not fulfilled as the same defect is noted over again in the next inspection note." The larger municipalities are little better in this respect than the smaller. Very few of the boards display any interest in the subject. The attitude of the Agra board which has evinced considerable enthusiasm for its electrical scheme but none for its sanitary scheme may be regarded as typical.

24. The increase in expenditure on lighting is similarly due to the increase in price of oil and lamps and has not resulted in any general improvement in lighting arrangements. Of Allahabad the Commissioner remarks that "the present system is hardly worthy of a great city"; and the Commissioner of Lucknow, referring to that municipality, says "the present lighting in the main streets is a discredit to the city."

25. Despite the remarks on the subject in last year's resolution expenditure on roads actually declined, and all boards the state of whose finances is at all precarious economized at their expense. In Bareilly the state of the roads is reported to be "going from bad to worse" and the Commissioner considers that the interference of some of the members in matters in which expert and technical knowledge is required accounts in a great measure for this unsatisfactory state of affairs. Of Benares the Commissioner reports as follows:—"Last year it was estimated that normal expenditure should be about Rs. 75,000. In 1918-19 only Rs. 31,500 and in the year under review only Rs. 26,000 was spent. An estimate recently made shows that to put the principal thoroughfare in order nearly 1½ lakhs would be needed. The deficiency in expenditure is attributed to the difficulty in obtaining transport. This has no doubt materially affected work, but it must also be added that there has been want of energy. Complete repair is not possible in the state of the board's finances and a careful selection by the board of the more important roads is desirable."

26. It is clear that neither as regards sanitation, lighting or communications can much improvement be expected without considerable outlay and while he has considered it necessary to point out to the boards their deficiencies in these respects, His Honour does not hold them entirely responsible for the present unsatisfactory position. Circumstances have been too strong for them. Expenses have risen on all sides. Estimates for sanitary schemes which were formed a few years ago have now doubled or trebled; machinery is both expensive and difficult to procure without long delay, and the price of kankar for roads continues to rise as the supplies near at hand become exhausted.

Education.

27. Expenditure on education increased from Rs. 7,38,225 to Rs. 8,43,773, the largest increase—from Rs. 1,28,426 to Rs. 1,93,486—taking place in the Allahabad division, for which the Cawnpore, Allahabad and Farrukhabad boards are chiefly responsible. There were fairly large increases also in the Fyzabad and Lucknow divisions; Agra and Gorakhpur showed small decreases, and in other divisions there was little change. In many cases the increase is due to boards taking under their management schools which had hitherto been managed by the district board.

28. The number of boys' primary schools managed by the boards decreased by 17, but the number of aided schools rose by 27: altogether the number of scholars in both aided and board's primary schools increased by 3,844. As regards secondary education there was an appreciable increase in the number of schools managed or aided by municipal boards as well as in the number of scholars, which reached the figure of 18,990 or 1,600 more than last year. There was an encouraging advance as regards girls' schools as the number rose by 18 and the number of scholars by 2,335.

29. The remarks of Commissioners on the subject of educational progress disclose little that is new. There are still far too many municipalities in which the prescribed minimum expenditure of 5 per cent. of the municipal income is not worked up to. Nowhere is there evinced any great popular thirst for education and in such circumstances progress cannot but be slow although expenditure on education as a rule meets with public approval, and is in fact the only head which does. Unfortunately, as the Commissioner of Benares remarks, the approval extends only to increases in the number of schools and teachers, and shows little regard for salaries, housing and equipment. Lucknow and Allahabad have still large balances from Government grants for the building of new schools unexpended.

30. The Primary Education Act has not yet been applied to any municipality. The Lieutenant-Governor considered that the rules as originally drafted were insufficiently liberal and that some of their provisions were of such a nature as to discourage boards from taking advantage of the Act. His Honour recognizes that for some time to come it may be necessary to allow relaxation of the conditions which are usually imposed as regards the qualifications of teachers and accommodation facilities. The rules have now been considerably liberalized in these respects and submitted for opinion to a number of leading non-officials who are interested in the subject. They have now been issued and it is hoped that municipalities will come forward for the application of the Act. As was remarked in last year's resolution Sir Harcourt Butler is ready to give liberal financial assistance to any such enterprise. In the present state of municipal and provincial finance, however, no very rapid progress can be expected. His Honour has no wish to discourage any board from utilizing the Act, but in some cases it would appear necessary to suggest to municipalities that they should put their existing house in order before contemplating extensions to it. The Commissioner of the Meerut division, for instance, writes of the Meerut board :—

"The board, so far as I can make out, have still no satisfactory arrangements for the inspection of their schools and the figures tend to show that in spite of the efforts of the Educational Committee . . . their efficiency leaves much to be desired. The board apparently owns no buildings of its own and school has to be held in rooms unsuited for the purpose. . . . The committee wishes to introduce compulsory education at once in certain areas, increasing the number of schools elsewhere so as to pave the way for the introduction of compulsory education there also. But it is not more schools that are wanted at present but the improvement of the existing schools and an increase in their enrolment and attendance. Since nearly 75 per cent. of the sons of the poorer classes do not attend any recognized schools, it would appear that the majority of parents have not as yet any inclination to send their sons to schools and that any measure for the introduction of compulsory education could not be introduced without much trouble and hardship."

Vital statistics.

31. The municipal birth rate again fell from 41·75 to 40·70, while the death rate also declined from 80·94 to 42·99. The year was free from epidemics and generally fairly healthy. The fall in the birth rate merely indicates that the full effect of the influenza epidemic of the previous year on births was not immediately felt, and the Sanitary Commissioner considers, having regard to the fact that the previous year was the unhealthiest on record that a fall of only 1·05 is not unsatisfactory. The municipalities, at all events, fared much better in this respect than the province generally, the provincial birth rate falling from 39·89 to 32·39. Firozabad heads the list, as it has done for the last seven years, with a birth rate of 69·34, while, leaving out Mussooree, where the circumstances are of a special nature, the municipalities which returned lowest rates were Azamgarh, Lakhimpur and Mainpuri, the figures being respectively 13·76, 16·18 and 20·18. In two of these three municipalities the low rate is ascribed to defective registration. The highest death rate occurred in Brindaban where it was 88·98, or considerably in excess of the average of the previous year. Balrampur comes next with a rate of 71·75, while Sikandra Rao, Mau, Cawnpore and Firozabad return figures of over 60.

32. The infantile mortality fell from 367·52 per mille to 292·47. The highest mortality was reported from Jalesar (Etah) with a death rate of 501·47 per mille of births. Cawnpore, Brindaban, Sikandra Rao and Mau had rates of more than 400. A scheme for the training of indigenous dais was started at six centres, Lucknow, Benares, Cawnpore, Allahabad, Bareilly and Fyzabad, but the progress made has not been very great and the Bareilly health officer is the only one who speaks in enthusiastic terms of the work done. Propaganda and educational work both among the dais and the general public would appear to be necessary before much success can be expected.

Improvement Trust.

33. The Improvement Trusts which were created during the year for Lucknow and Cawnpore commenced operations and have now completed the greater part of the preliminary spade work. Several important schemes have been published and some have already been sanctioned and are now being carried out. His Honour has drawn the special attention of the Trusts to the importance of housing schemes both to replace the people who may be temporarily ejected and also to provide for the normal needs of an expanding population. Since the close of the year an Improvement Committee has been appointed for Naini Tal to draw up a preliminary report on the lines adopted in Lucknow, Cawnpore and Allahabad.

Financial position of boards.

34. The financial position of the majority of boards is sufficiently strong to enable them to meet all ordinary demands, including enhancement of pay of municipal employees necessitated by the change in economic conditions, and have a fair balance left. It does not, however, in most cases allow them to contemplate any large scheme of improvement without the imposition of fresh taxation. A certain number of boards even now cannot satisfactorily pay their way ; and it includes some of the most important municipalities in the province such as Allahabad, Lucknow, Fyzabad, Cawnpore, Bareilly and Benares. At least two of these boards are in the Commissioner's words "heading for bankruptcy," but most of them are now taking steps to impose fresh taxation and thus bring their income more into line with their expenditure.

35. Among the larger municipalities the position is fairly satisfactory in Shahjahanpur, Moradabad, Mussooree, Meerut, Naini Tal, Saharanpur and Fatehgarh, while at Aligarh it is reported to be exceptionally good. The Commissioner of Agra does not accept the favourable view of the financial position of that municipality which the chairman's report suggests. In his opinion the figures mean "that the board was only able to meet its debt charges and its normal obligations from normal resources with a small margin of a few thousand rupees for public works." At the same time he adds that "the board can fairly claim that they have been able to meet heavily increased demands in the wages bill from their normal revenues, though at the cost of reducing allotments for original works to a low figure. The revision of assessments of the fixed taxes will improve the financial position considerably."

36. In Bareilly receipts for the past year were considerably less than the expenditure and the balance far below the prescribed minimum. In the Commissioner's opinion immediate and strenuous measures are necessary to put matters right by cutting down expenditure. "The first step to be taken," he remarks, "is to reorganize the establishments by reducing the unessential posts and paying those retained more in accordance with the qualifications of the incumbents." It is satisfactory that since the close of the year the board have shown signs of a desire to reduce their expenditure by such measures.

37. At Benares the position is not much better. Income, it is true, slightly exceeded expenditure, but the real closing balance was only about half the fixed minimum balance the board is required to maintain and, as the Commissioner remarks, "the deficit would have been larger, if the board had paid all bills due and had worked up to the budget allotment for repairs to roads."

38. At Cawnpore receipts fell short of the budget estimates by nine lakhs and of the actuals of the previous year by one lakh respectively, while expenditure exceeded the previous year's figures by nearly two lakhs. The board is now taking steps to increase its income by the revision of the terminal tax and toll schedules and it has also appointed a special committee to go into the various heads of expenditure and to suggest possible curtailments.

There was a slight increase in income and a slight decrease in expenditure at Allahabad, but the balance of Rs. 97,549 includes a sum of Rs. 75,482 on account of grants and loans, and the net balance is far below the prescribed minimum. The financial condition of this municipality is as precarious as the other municipalities mentioned, if not more so. The board can only produce a budget for the current year which shows a surplus at all by assuming that Government will agree to postpone its claim to certain interest charges and by making optimistic estimates of the income to be derived both from existing taxes and taxes which have yet to be imposed. Proposals to improve the position are now under consideration and some increases in rates and taxes have already been sanctioned by Government.

39. While the position at Lucknow also is unsatisfactory the Commissioner is hopeful that it will soon improve. As at other places the board is considering proposals for the expansion of income. "The future prospects of the board," the Commissioner remarks, "depend on new schemes of water and sewerage and with the expansion of Lucknow which is now taking place, I do not think there is any ground for pessimism."

40. That in many cases there is no reason why municipalities should not take steps to improve their financial position by the imposition of additional taxation is clear from an examination of the incidence of taxation per head of the population. The incidence varies very considerably, being highest as might be expected in the hill municipalities of Mussooree and Naini Tal, and lowest in Sambhal and Shahabad, whose populations pay only Re. 0-4-0 and Re. 0-5-6 respectively per head. Midway between these extremes come Cawnpore with Rs. 5-7-9, Dehra with Rs. 4-1-3 and Allahabad with Rs. 3-1-3. The remainder all return figures below Rs. 3 and there is no reason to suppose that in many of these cases extra taxation could not be levied, if necessary, without imposing too heavy a burden on the population concerned. The incidence of taxation in Meerut, for instance, is only Re. 1-15-0 per head, in Saharanpur it is Re. 1-10-9, in Khurja Re. 1-3-3, in Budaun Re. 1-5-6, in Moradabad Re. 1-15-9, in Shahjahanpur Re. 1-4-0, in Farrukhabad Re. 1-1-3, in Bareilly Rs. 2-2-0 and in Lucknow Rs. 2-12-3.

General.

41. The principal facts in the history of the municipal administration of the province during the past year have now been told. They disclose sufficiently the main weaknesses and shortcomings of the boards, and His Honour does not wish to lay any further stress on the individual defects which are not unnaturally to be found in a few out of a large number of local bodies composed of many various elements. There will probably always be some black sheep, but their number is visibly on the decline and their blackness is not so noticeable as it was. For the unsatisfactory financial position in which many boards now find themselves Sir Harcourt Butler does not think that they are entirely to blame. The circumstances of the past few years have been abnormal and it is not surprising that boards have been in some cases slow to adapt themselves to economic changes. There are not wanting signs that the position is now better recognized, that members are making up their minds to swallow the somewhat bitter medicine of heavier taxation and beginning to take a more public-spirited view of their responsibilities. At present boards are not infrequently criticized for lack of energy, and His Honour is inclined to agree with the Commissioner of Benares that in some cases at least this apparent slackness is due to anxiety as to the reception which their acts will meet with at the hands of the general public. He would therefore recommend for acceptance by the boards the suggestion of the Commissioner that greater publicity should be given to the discussions at meetings. At present the printed records are usually printed late and are so brief as to convey little impression to the general public of the reasons which have influenced the boards in their decisions. It is essential, if the acts of a board are to meet with general approval, that the reasons for them should be clearly understood. His Honour will gladly encourage any steps the boards may take in this direction. Complaints of friction between members are still to be found, but they are fewer than they were, and Sir Harcourt Butler is hopeful that members are beginning to realize the evils which arise from dissension and the discredit into which it brings both the members themselves and municipal administration generally. In several municipalities the signs are encouraging. Of the Fyzabad board the Commissioner remarks that a spirit of goodwill and mutual help prevails. The proceedings of the Naini Tal board have been characterized in the words of the Commissioner, 'by good temper, a spirit of compromise and a loyal desire to carry out the decision of the majority even when there has been diversity of opinion upon any point,' and similar harmonious co-operation is reported from Benares. An improvement is also to be observed in some of the reports themselves, as being franker and more complete statements of the position of the boards than they have been in the past. Especially is this the case with the Benares report. The report from Lucknow deserves special praise, as a frank and discriminating document of high merit, which reflects great credit both on its author and the board that passed it.

42. The Fyzabad board is further to be commended as fully alive to the necessity of carrying out the advice of its expert advisers in the matter of sanitation, and other boards might well take a lesson from it in this respect. Hitherto, it is to be feared, boards have often been inclined to resent the interference of experts and to display their independence by rejecting their advice. His Honour trusts that this tendency will disappear; in the present times of stress and difficulty he is sure that on reflection they will realize that expert advice and co-operation between the boards and officers of Government is more than ever necessary, and that little progress can be made if relations are strained or merely formal. He recognizes that occasional doses of purely destructive criticism or the advocacy of ideals with very little practical advice as to how they are to be attained are not likely to be welcomed, and he is convinced that if the boards are to receive any real constructive help from Government, officials and non-officials must get into closer touch. This question was only recently raised in an address presented to His Honour by the Fyzabad Municipal Commissioners in which it was pointed out that, before the passing of the present Act, the official chairman of a board was a connecting link between the members and officials generally, and that now that the link had disappeared there was a danger lest that co-operation which the Fyzabad board recognized as so necessary should not be attained. His Honour has been so impressed by the wisdom of these remarks that he has addressed all heads of departments on the subject. There is in particular a very real need for closer relations between Chairmen of municipalities and the Secretary to Government who deals with this branch of the administration. All municipalities look to Government to finance whether by way of loan or grant or both those larger schemes of sanitary reform many of which are now long overdue, and Government and the Board of Public Health are at present engaged in a critical examination of the resources, existing and potential, of the more important boards with a view to the carrying out with Government assistance of a programme of sanitary improvements and electrical installations at the earliest possible date. It is therefore of the greatest importance that Government should be fully acquainted with the capacities and wishes of the boards concerned, and it is obvious that this knowledge cannot be satisfactorily obtained merely in the ordinary course of official correspondence. Sir Harcourt Butler earnestly trusts, therefore, that these overtures in the direction of greater co-operation between the boards and Government officials will be met in the spirit in which they are made.

ORDER.—Ordered that a copy of this resolution be forwarded to all Commissioners of divisions, for information and communication to the chairmen of municipal boards.

Ordered also that a copy be published in the United Provinces Government Gazette for general information.

By order,

E. A. H. BLUNT,

Secretary.
